Hang-up. Ray Poe reaches his goal of climbing to the top of the volleyball net.

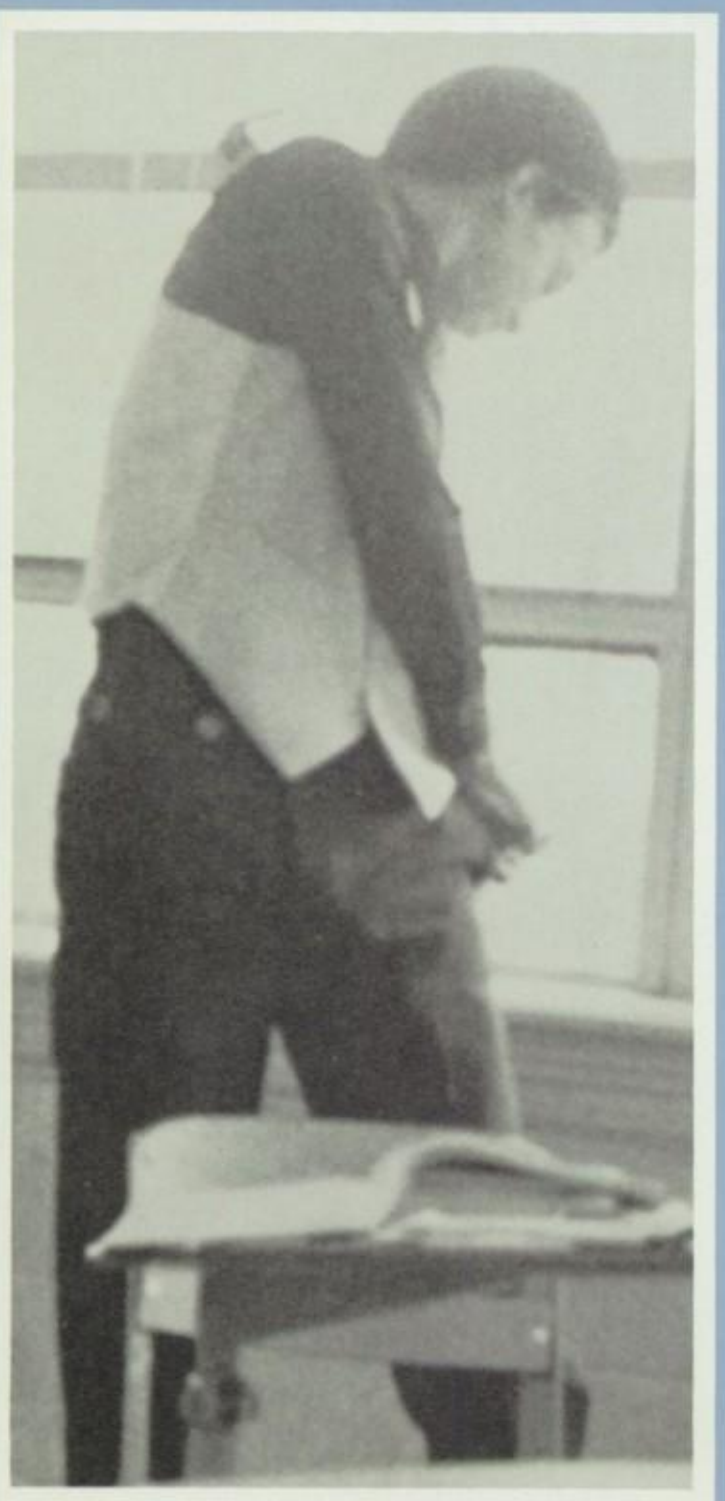
The Convention Special, an old steam engine, passes by the school entrances.

Playtime is evident as a group of students scuffle at lunch.

That's the purpose of this yearbook—to create anew what has already been made. Each of us has molded out a year in his or her own way. Whether it was "good", "mediocre", or "lousy", we had some control over the outcome.

Recall the opening of school when you changed the setting of your lifestyle from working, hanging out at the pool, watching television, pulling tobacco, or calling friends to sitting in a classroom, taking notes, and just generally getting back in the swing of school.

After awhile, things began happening—things you'll look back on with sadness, joy, regret and happiness. No matter what emotion a memory arouses, it will be remembered. Maybe looking back can help us build a better future. Anyway, let's recreate . . .



Even teachers get into sticky situations. In vain, Mr. Buck tries to remove chewing gum from his pants.

Jumping for joy. The sophomore class rejoices as cheerleader, Hope Vandergrift presents them the spirit stick.

"Cool Dudes." Not wasting any energy, Kenneth Brown and Ricky Wilkes just sit around.

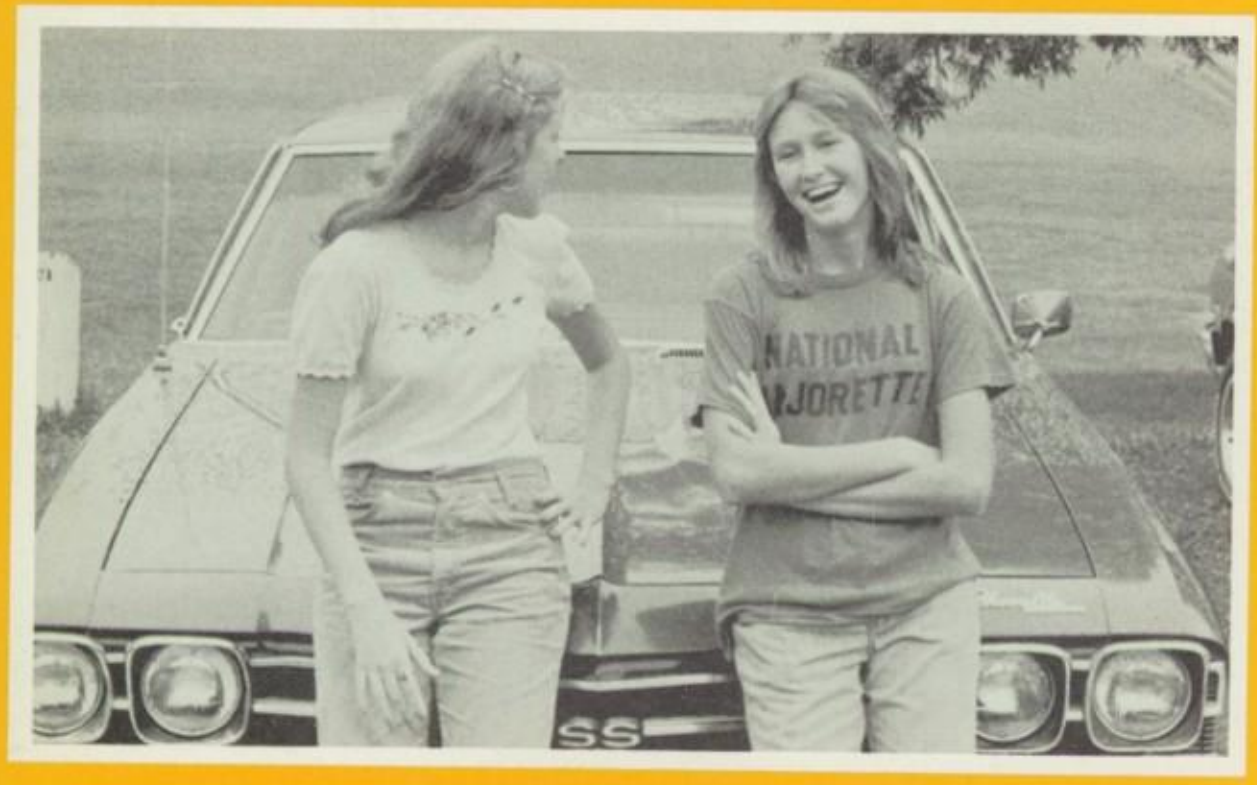
Early Morning Spirit. Before school starts, the cheerleaders have a pep rally in the gym to put a little spirit into the day.

Before the Bell Rings...

Outside the gym. Roger Smith, Ronald Hamlette, Kim Bennett, Greg Williams, and Danny Mays relax before school.

The first homeroom bell rang at 8:30, however some students arrived on the scene so early it appeared that they might have camped out overnight. On the other hand, a few stragglers slid into the parking lot at approximately 8:29, grabbed their books, and made a 50-yard dash to their respective homerooms.

Most people just went to their locker, put their books up, and found their friends to talk to until the bell rang. It was the last chance to run around before hitting the books.



Parking Lot Get-Together. Lisa McCullough and Maxine Putnam talk over the latest events.

The Longest Hours...

Boring!! That's how the majority of students would describe their classes but maybe this judgment was a little harsh. When you take a good look back, a classroom is where some of the most unforgettable experiences took place. A few of the interesting things that occurred in our classrooms were:

(a) a student was alseep when the bell rang and no one bothered to wake him up.

(b) the whole class conveniently forgot about the test scheduled for Friday.

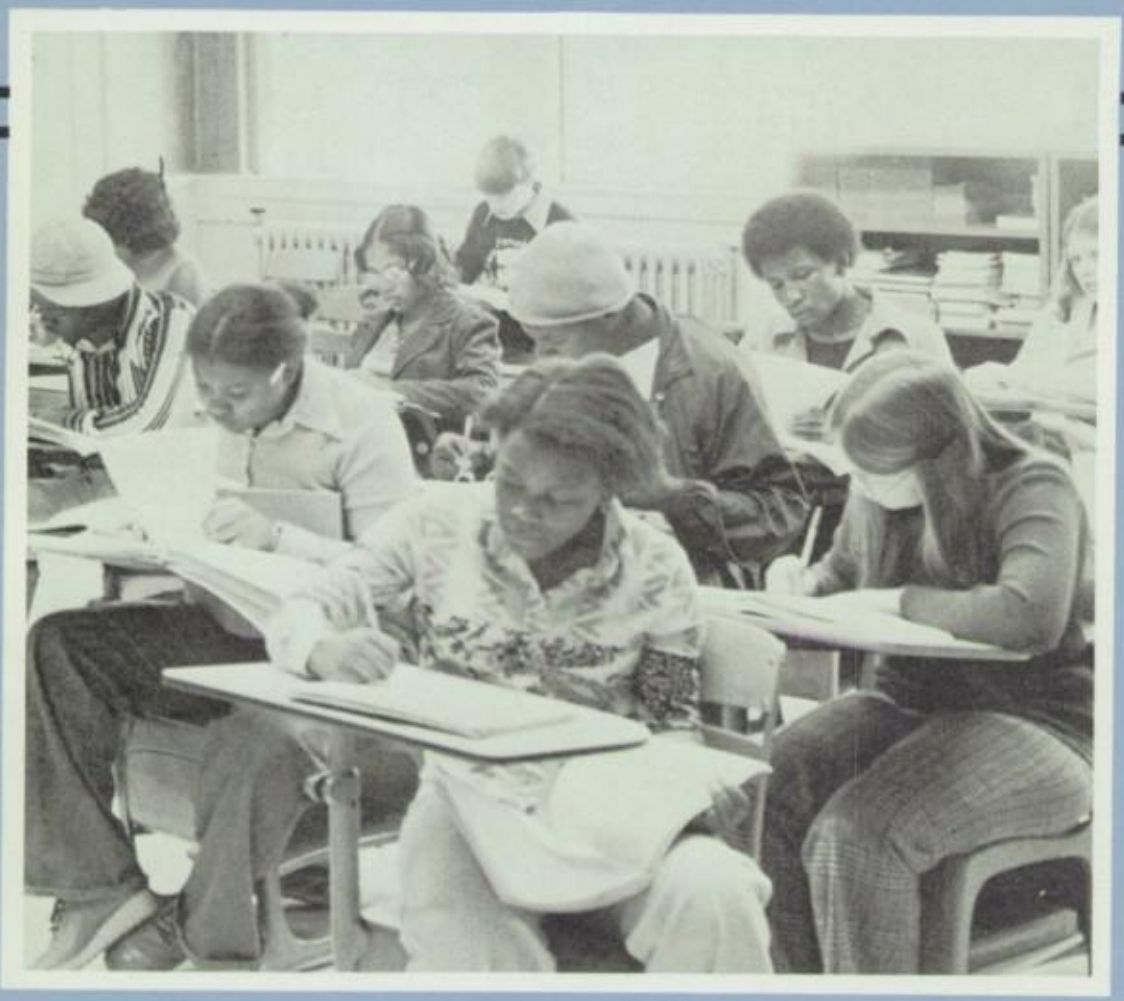
(c) the person with the weakest stomach got the juiciest Louisiana Swamp frog to dissect in biology class.

(d) right after you finished copying the notes on the blackboard, the teacher informed you that your assignment was on the other board.

(e) just when you thought the experiment was over . . . BOOM!?*&

Practice makes perfect. The band rehearses songs used to perform at football games.

Group study. Mr. Cox's government classes were assigned the task of organizing their own towns. Chrystal Mosby, Audrey Moore, Barbara Nowlin and Vickie Adams discuss their plans.



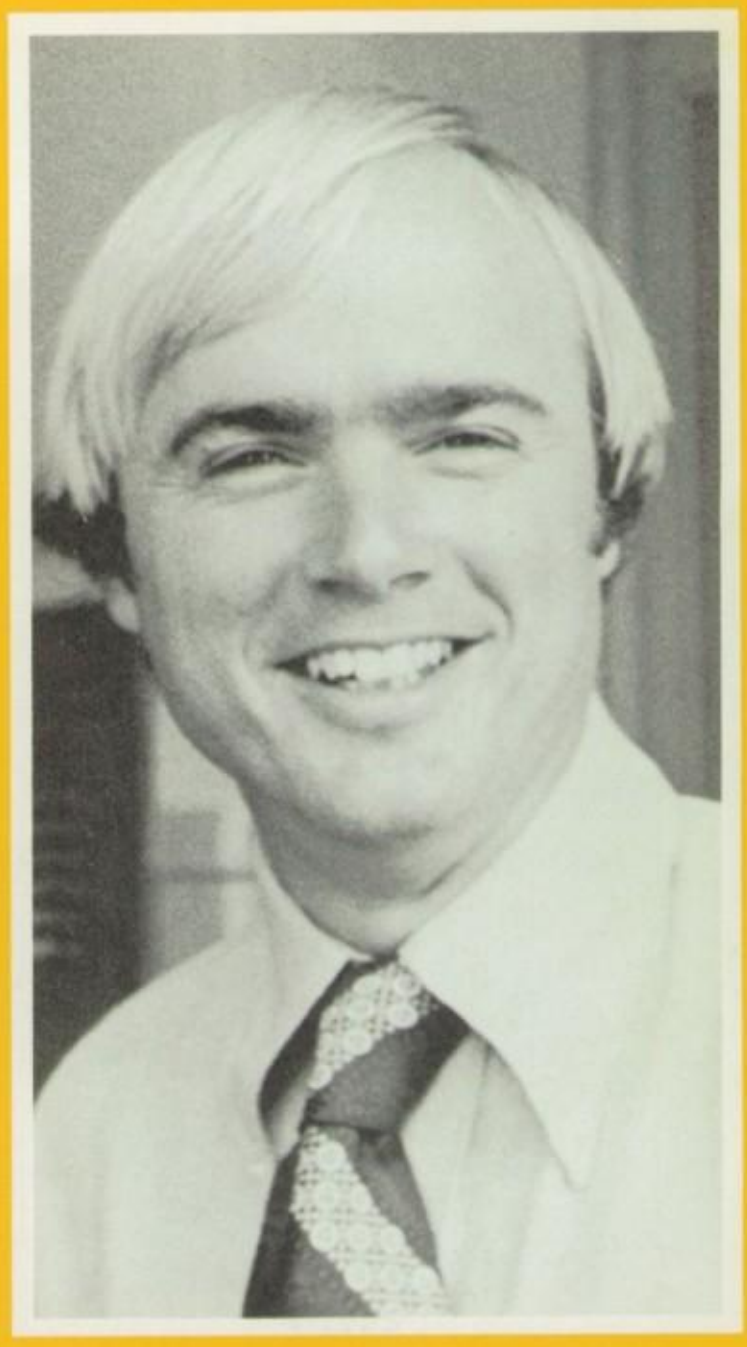
Classroom concentration is evident in Mrs. Johnston's fourth period English Class.

With a puzzled expression on her face, Joni Woodell makes sure she understands the assignment while other classmates listen.

Working on "The General," Members of the yearbook staff, Mary Ashworth and Miranda Flynn type ads, while Gary Jones and Robin Elder put new names in the index.

Each year a great American institution is changed and so it goes at William Campbell. Last year, it was the "block" that ended our rampage of the halls. This year, the "ten minute break" was introduced. One of its bad qualities was that it seemed before the ten minutes were over the teacher had called the roll, given a test, given the make-up test, and checked it.

The break gave you a few extra minutes to "bum" around. Some people frequented the drink machines while others just talked. It was a new experience and not a bad one even though it took time off the lunch periods.



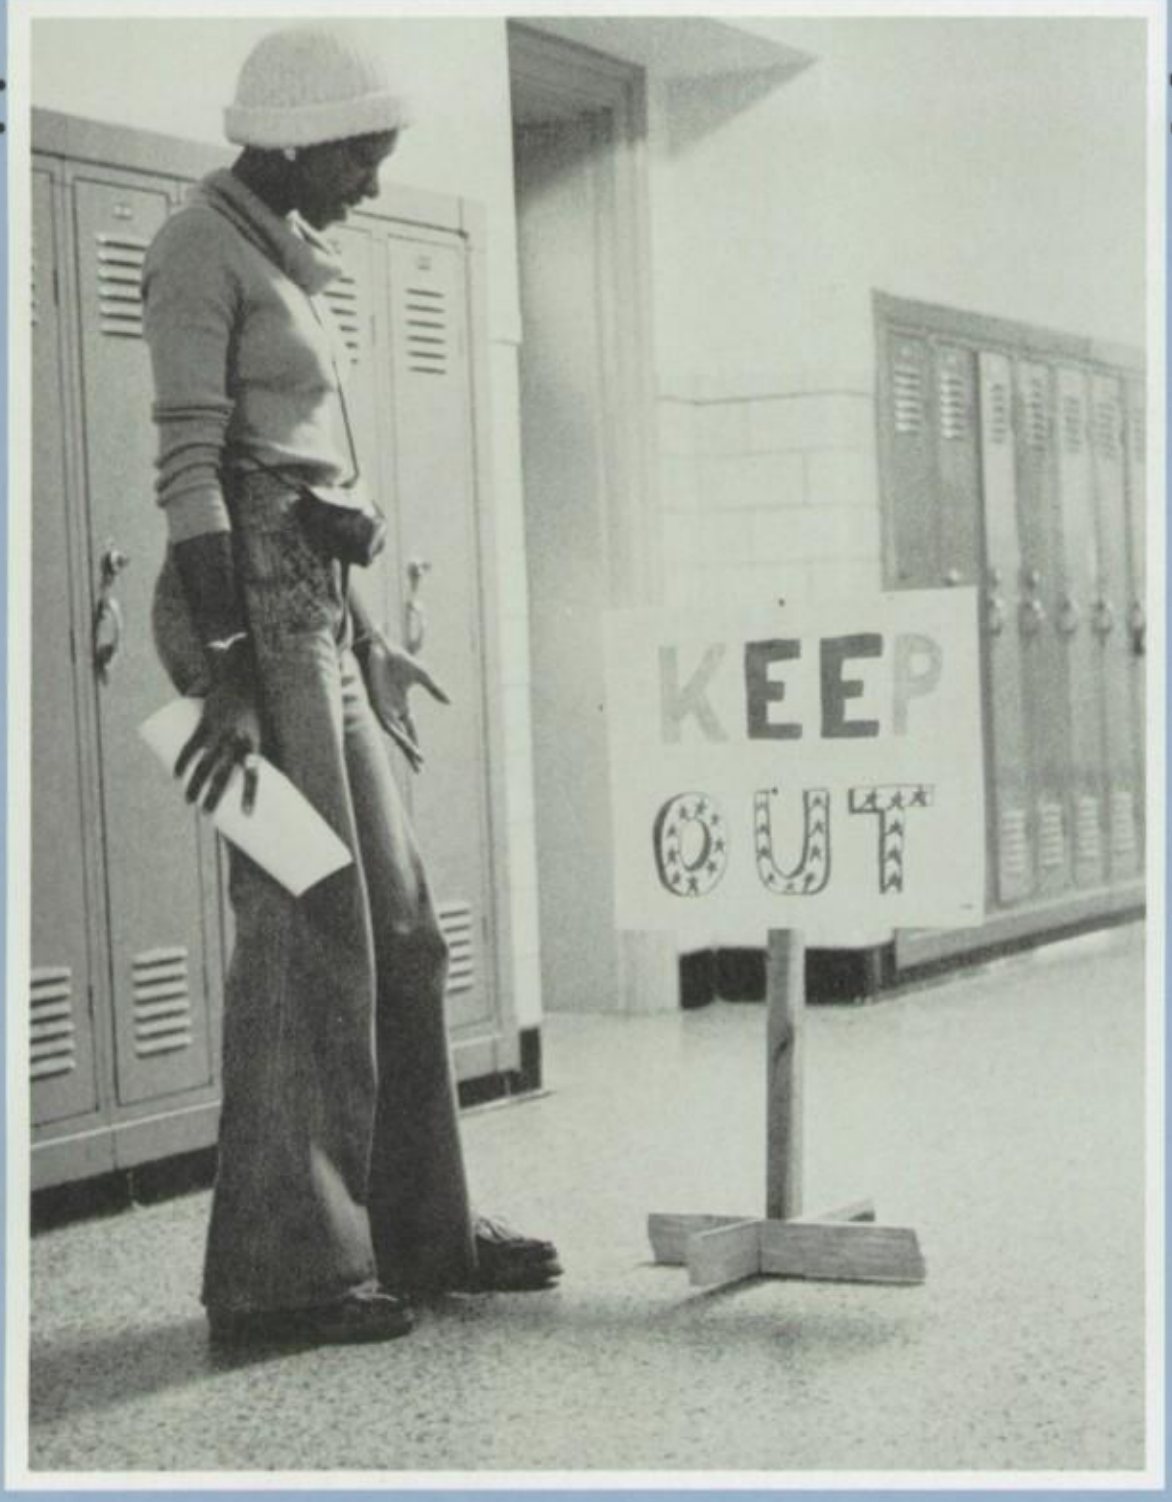
Pearly Whites. Mr. Barry Rice is captured with a smile on his face.

Looks count! To make sure their appearance is the very best, Cynthia Davis, Fannie Hancock, Selena Hancock, Frances Graves, and Rita Payne touch up their makeup.

10 Minute Break

Friendly Fight. Tim Nash puts a head lock on Devery Wade as Jane Kirkland referees.

Halls swell. When the bell rings for ten minute break, all the halls fill, especially at the snack machine.



What?? Belinda Adams appears surprised by the "Keep Out" sign put in the hall during the second lunch period.

Whether you bought it or bagged it, lunch was one time of day you tried to forget your troubles and do what you wanted. Some people:

(a) ate in the cafeteria
(b) sat around talking
(c) hung around the band building
(d) studied for up-coming tests
(e) played "frisbee"
(f) all of the above

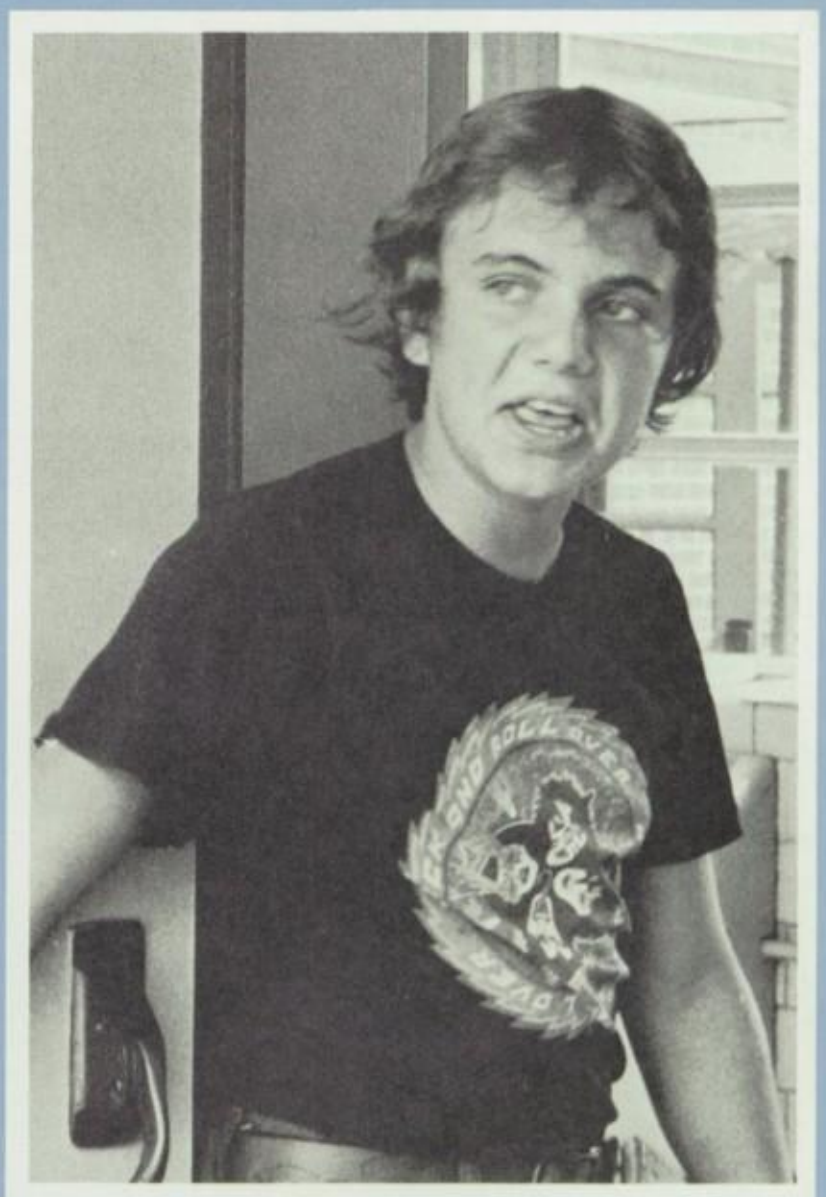
Seniors were allowed to go to lunch five minutes earlier than underclassmen. This meant they got the distinguished honor of getting out of third period a little earlier. No matter what you did, the general consensus was that it was the high point of the day.

Lunch Bunch. Eating lunch and sharing conversation are Joni Woodell, Amy Foster, Tim Nash, Sandra Roakes, Susan Roakes and Hope Elder.

It's Lunchtime

Doing her job. One of Meg Jenning's duties is demonstrated as she sells a lunch ticket to Natalie Green.

Dial a number. As Kendall Isaacs peers through the gym door, Cynthia Davis tries to make a phone call.

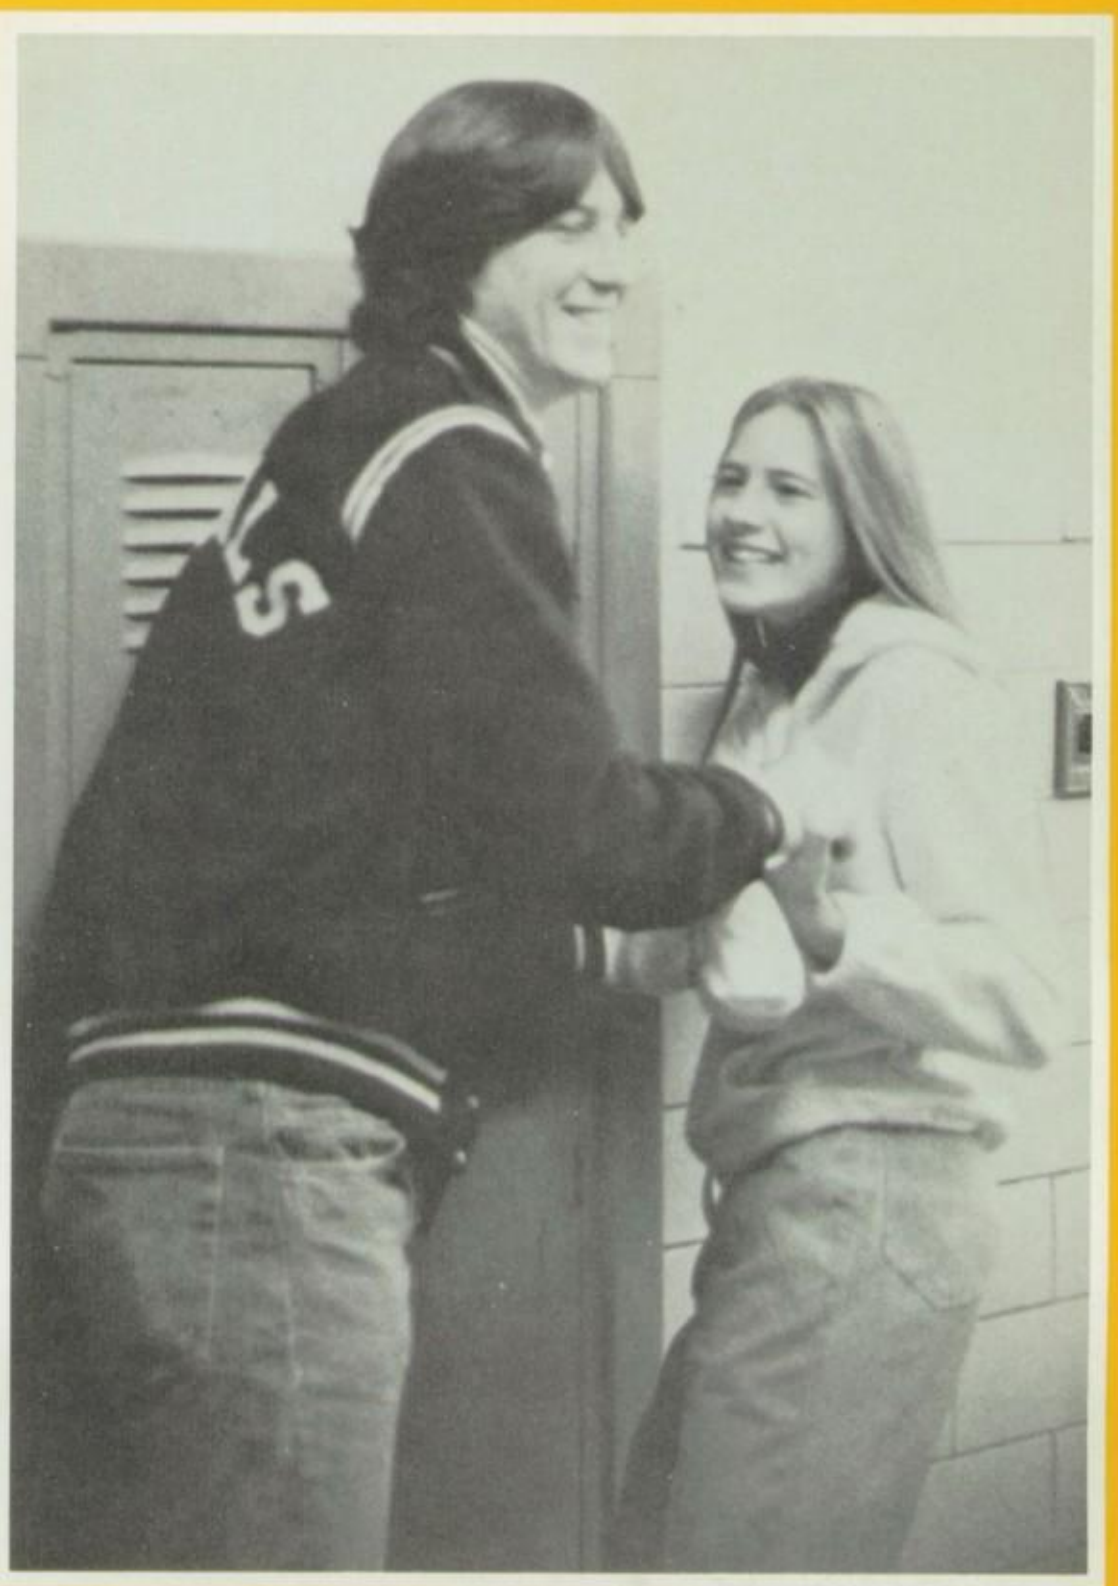


Funny face. Sam Trent makes an unusual expression as he gazes at the smoking area.

Chow time. As people crowd into the lunchroom, the photographer snaps a view of the cafeteria.

Two for the Road

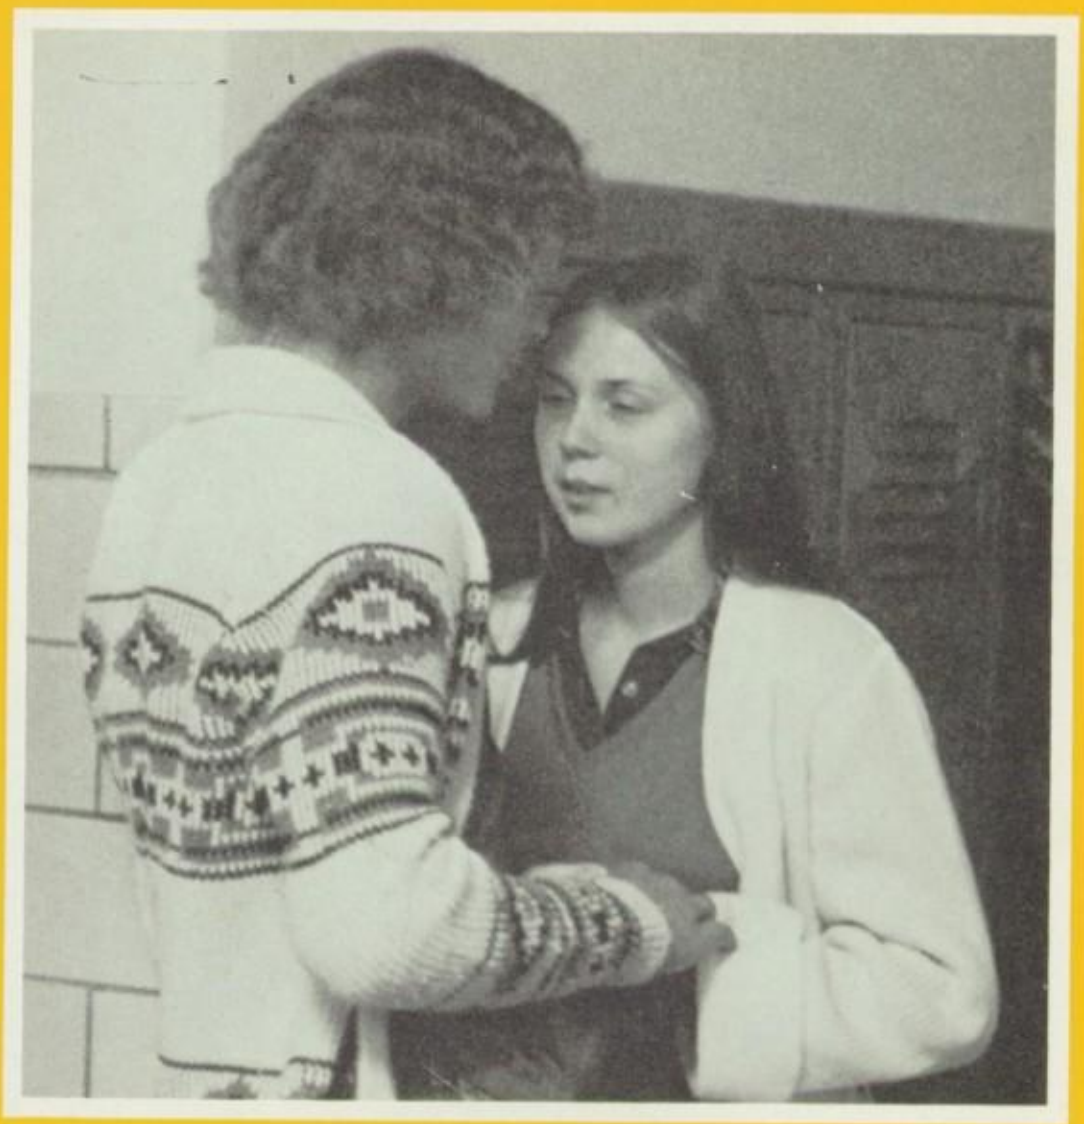
A Twosome. Mark Wilkes and Robin Walker stroll around during lunch.



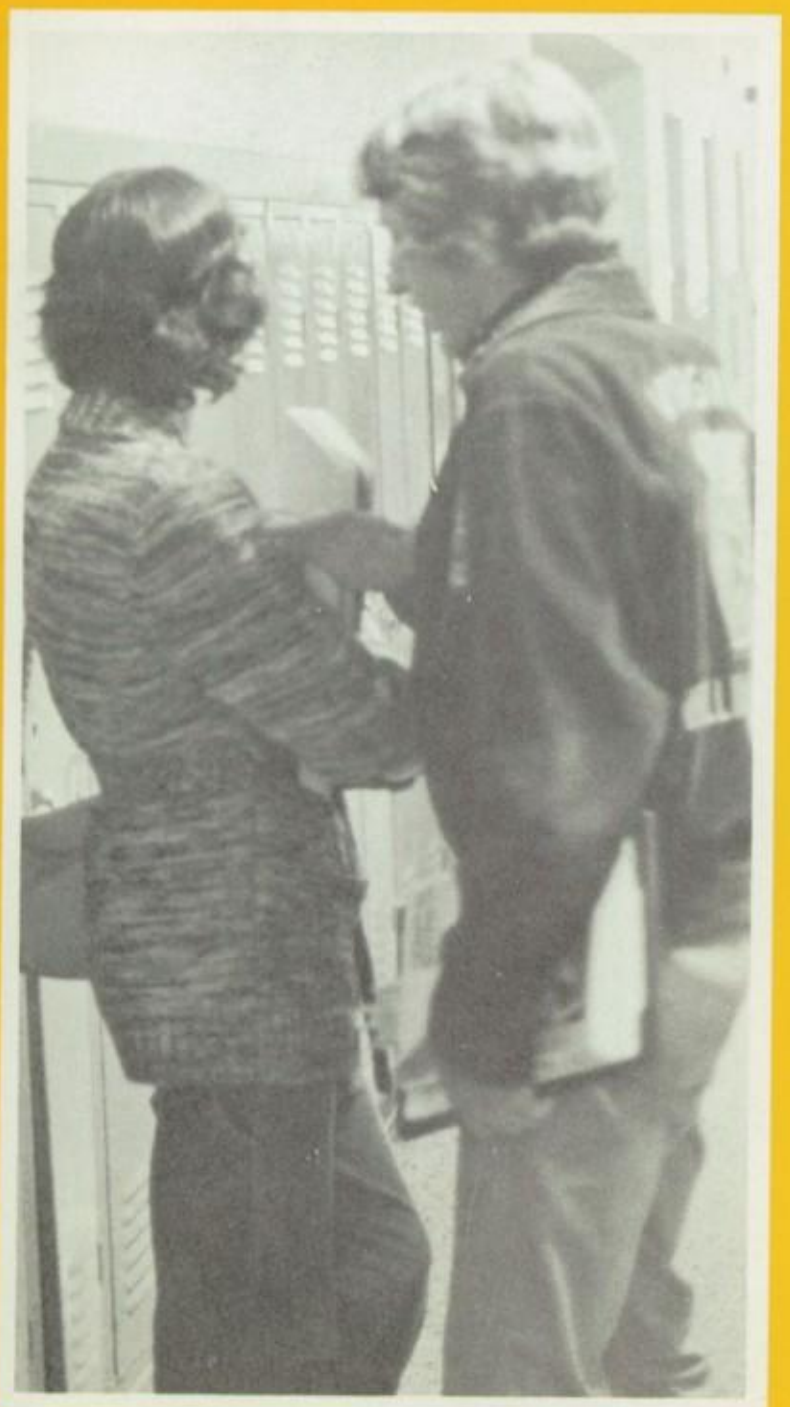
Come on! Don Harris tries to coax Beth Roakes into having her picture taken.

In general, being a couple is a transitory status. This social aspect, however, is very significant. Couples that were together when the picture was taken are not always together when the yearbook comes out.

This is especially true of pre-freshmen and freshmen couples. They are often not "going together" long enough for the photographer to get a picture. By the time students are sophomores and juniors, they start to settle down and the process becomes a little more subtle. Seniors, however are different. Everyone knows who these couples are. The only thing is you can never find them.



Togetherness. David Jones and Diane Mann are always together in the hall before classes.



Hey, you!! James Walker tries to gain Valeria Clark's attention as she stares in the opposite direction.

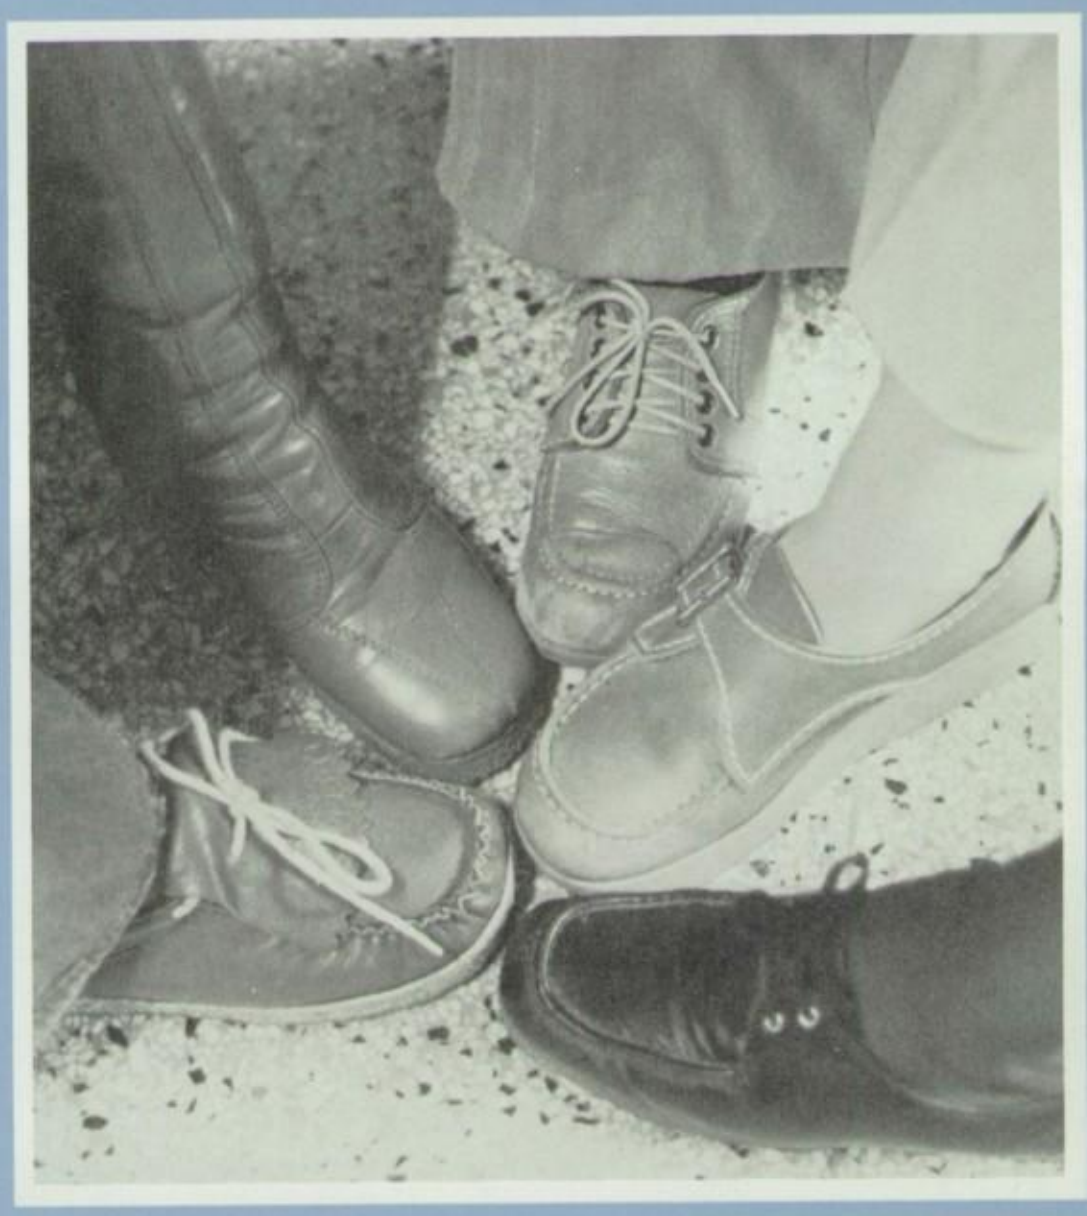
Farrah-mania. Everywhere you look, you see Farrah books, posters, and buttons. Needless to say, just about every guy has Farrah on his chest or in his heart.

As in any school, you find many different styles. The major source of fashions for some years, and 1978 was no exception, was blue jeans. The older these pants were the better. As in the case of Levi's you have to wash them a dozen times before you can even wear them.

The most "in" thing was T-shirts. If they didn't proclaim where you'd been, they told where you were going. T-shirts were emblazoned with places, faces, and what you really felt like saying.

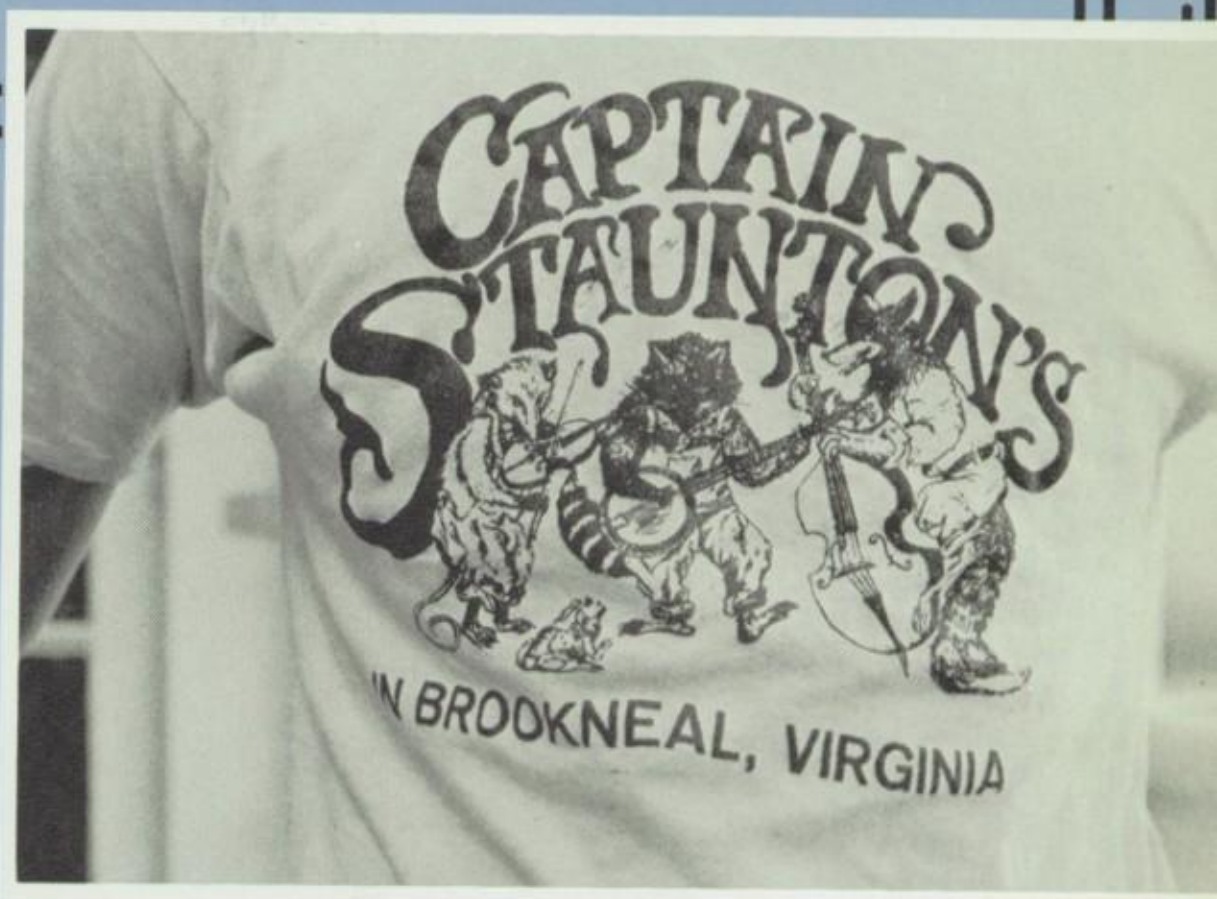
Shoes ranged from high-top tennis to cowboy boots. Whatever a person felt comfortable in, is what he or she wore. Generally, most of this year's fashions were casually spiced with a flare for fancy.

The big change in '78 was hair. Girls and boys both cut it off. The short, carefree look was in, sometimes fancied up with curls.

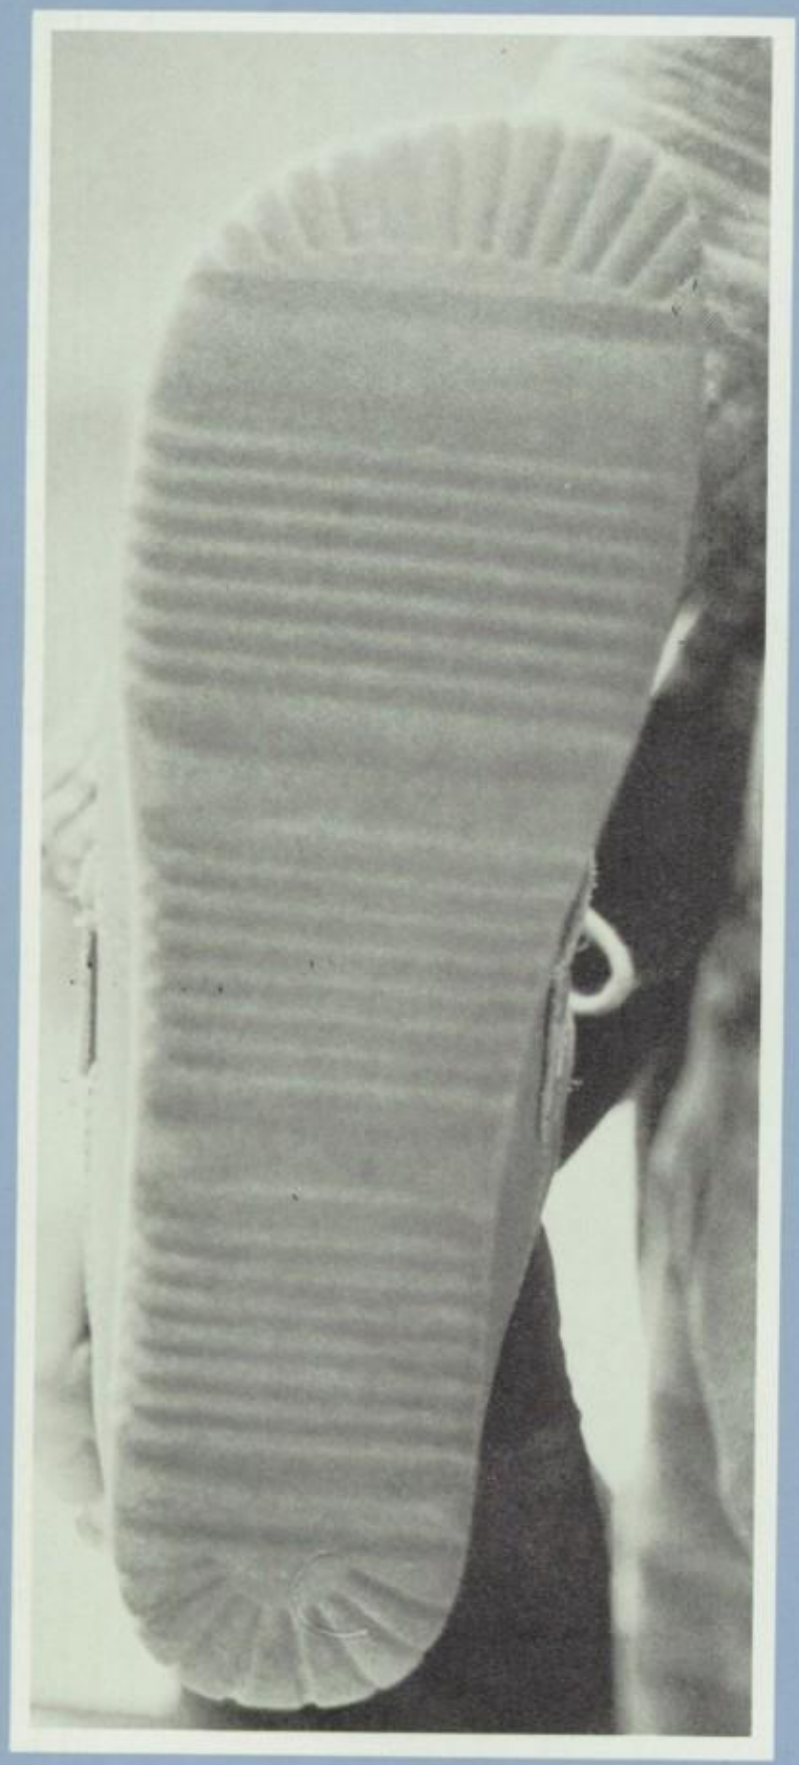


Throughout the school there were a lot of different shoe styles.

Fashion Corner



Commercialism. This T-shirt advertises Captain Staunton's Inn, a restaurant that serve as a gathering place for some students.



"Sunbackers." One of the popular shoe styles was known for its designed soles.

Is it or isn't it? Robin Elder sports the latest in hair styles, the Farrah-Fawcett look.

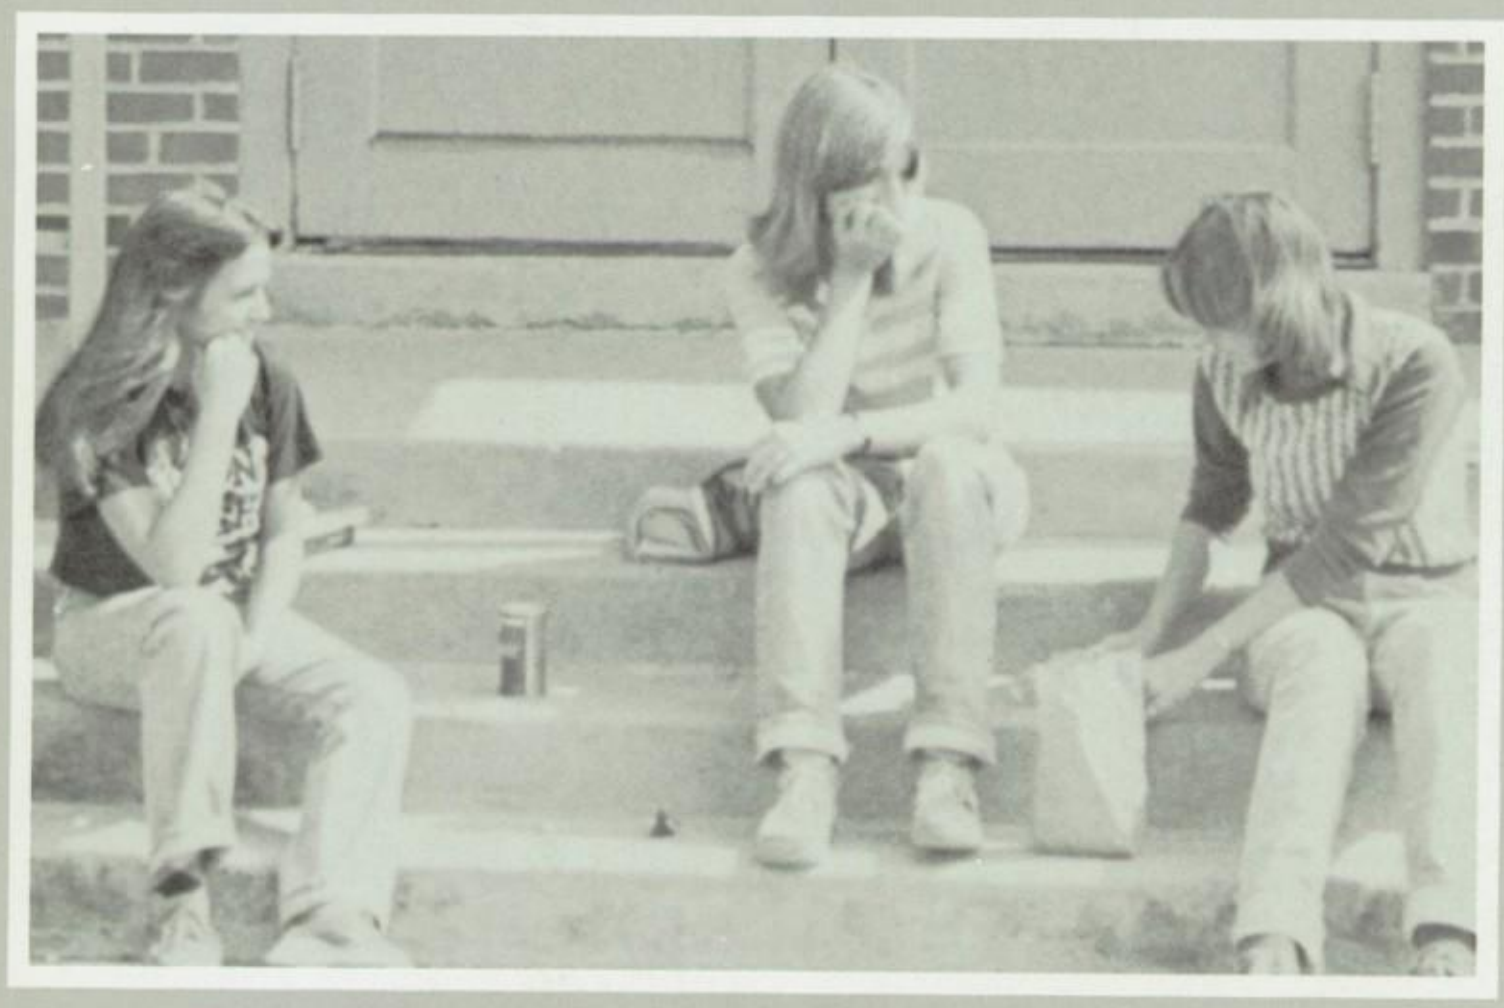
A bird or plane? First lunch period students gaze at the sky.

Finally time. To relieve themselves of the tensions of morning classes, Sheila Crabtree and Allison Williamson rest up during lunch while they have a chance to sit down.

Popular Places

Leisure time caught people anywhere at almost any time—the parking lot, smoking area, lunchroom, and in the halls. The activities ranged from catching up on homework, shooting basketball, and just plain talking to friends. Regardless of where we hung out, one thing was sure, we all loved to.

Some people climb the annex railing to rest during their lunch period.



Enjoying the outdoors. Preferring to in the cafeteria are Tina Colbert, Sandra Foster, and Rita Lindsay. Instead, they sit on the steps to the back door of the gym, talk and nibble on lunch.

Shocked seems to be the word to fit Ricky Fisher's expression as he sits with Pat Trent during lunch.

How Was Your Day?

When 670 people's lives mingled, varied attitudes and emotions were expected and there was no disappointment. Some situations caused a mixture of feelings. The gym door was a popular place to give vent to how a person felt when lists were taped up announcing who had made a sports team. Other exciting lists included who made the musical cast and cheerleader squads.

Sure, at one time or another, things looked a little gloomy, but the good times, including sharing a part of someone else's, made up for it.

Dribbling the basketball down the court, Stanley Baker is picked up by a Randolph-Henry player.

Good times. Students attending the Womanless Beauty Pageant seem to be having a fun time watching the boys appear on stage.

What Goes on in the Parking Lot?

Climb in. Heidi Gehman is ready to go home and shows it by seating herself in the car.

Waiting for their driver, Joyce Pool and Robyn Flynn stand beside the car.

Making a get away. Bobby Adams waits for Joni Woodell to unlock the car door so they can head home.

What is one of the most active places in school besides the building itself? The answer is not the football field or the tennis courts but the parking lot.

The parking lot is among the least controlled areas and this accounts for some of its popularity with students. The school parking lot was used for more than just squeezing a car into. It was a great place to congregate with friends at lunchtime. Also, the parking area provided a great place to lose one's self, especially if a faculty member was trying to find you.

In the morning, some students prefer to sit in cars and trucks; H.L. Williamson and Robert Clowdis are no exception.

Just in time. Mary and Anita Neighbors make it to the parking lot before the homeroom bell rings.

"General"ly Speaking

The image conjured up of school isn't usually one of fun and games so the yearbook staff decided to see how the student body remembers activities that occurred during the year.

Take the following multiple choice test and see how well you do . . .

Party time. What was this?
—a) A Guidance Department seance.
—b) Mrs. Nancy Minnix and Kathy Hall celebrate Halloween.
—c) Paying homage to the "Great Pumpkin".

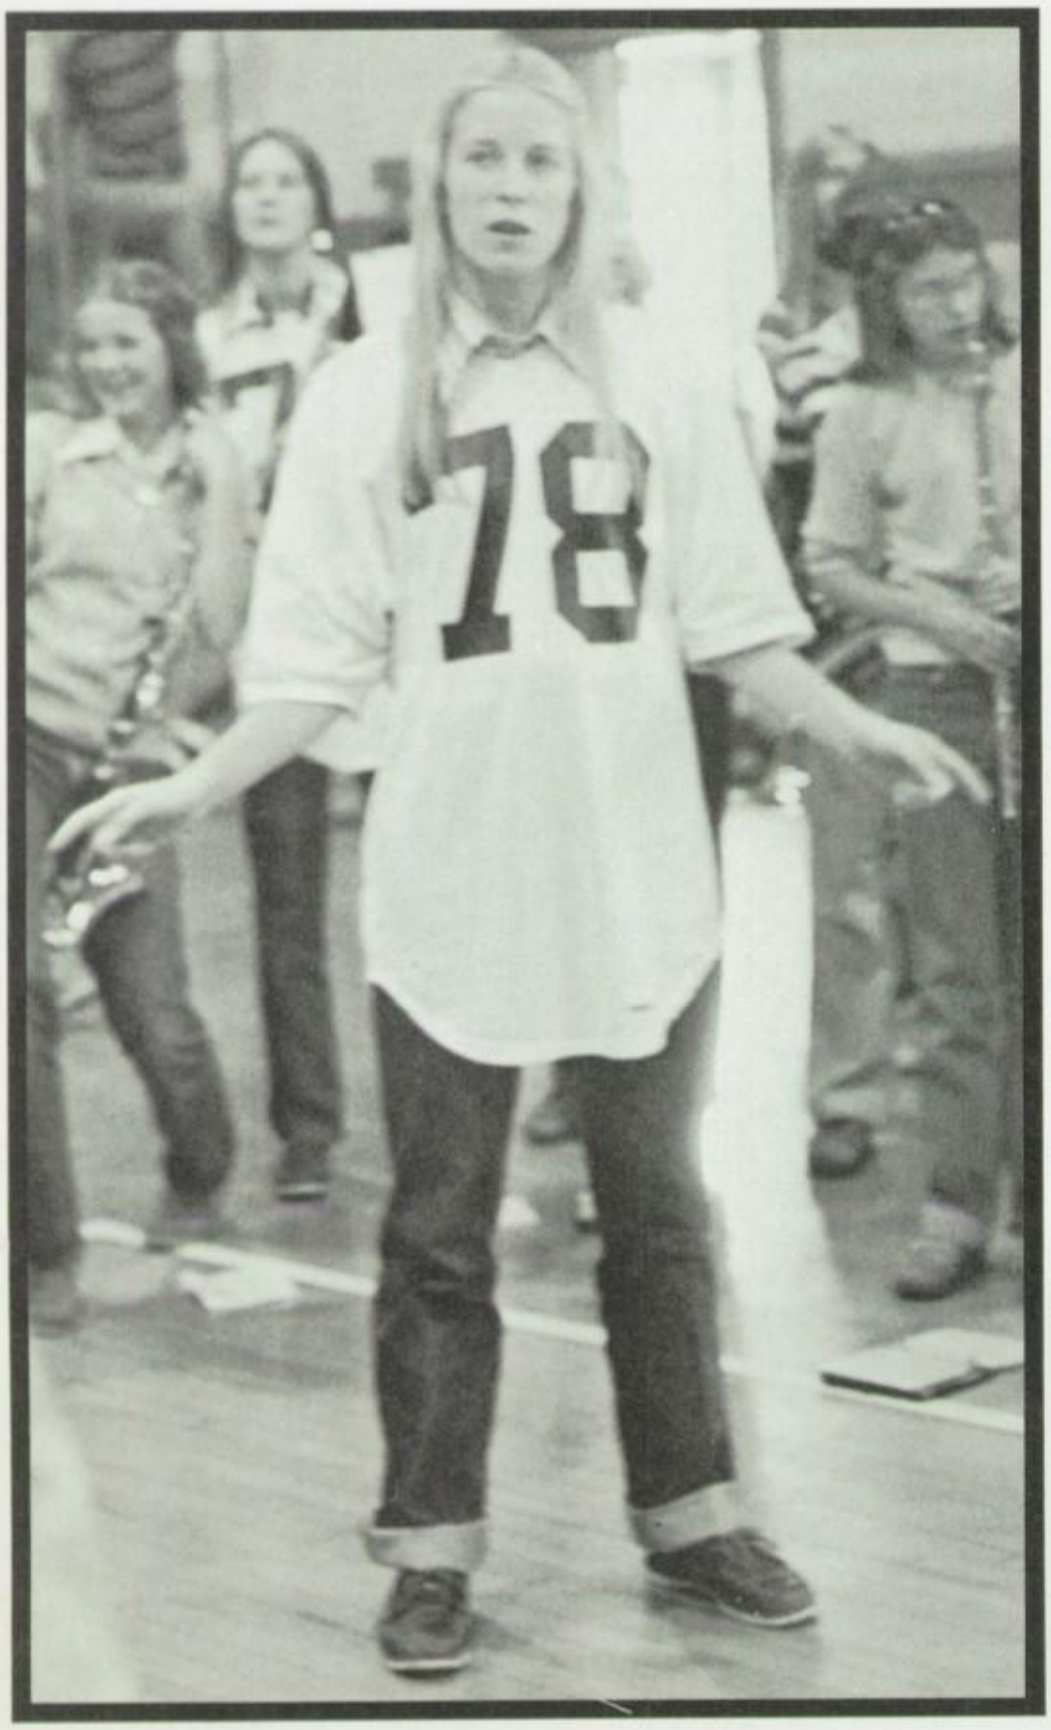
Strange! Is it:
—1)the hamburglar?
—b) Tammie Fallen and Marian Kirkland playing around at McDonald's in Lynchburg before going to the yearbook workshop at University of Virginia?
—c) a Big Mac having a people attack?

A nightmare. Do these people remind you of:
—a)Band members working in the Haunted House?
—b)Your relatives?
—c)The Munsters on a coffee break?

Take a good look! Does it remind you of:
—a)The first national disaster that occurred in 1978?
—b) Something out of a science fiction movie? (The Locker That Ate W.C.)
—c)Denise Smith's locker?

What's happening? Take a good look and decide if it is:
—a)Bobby Patrick breaking in his new platform shoes?
—b)A friendly handshake?
—c) The GM representative pulling Bobby Patrick around on one of her many demonstrations?

Crazy Clothes, Bare Legs, and Bonfires



Looking for her master, Amy Foster displays a football jersey.

Anything goes is expressed by Debra Layne's costume during Spirit Week.

As a tradition, spirit week was held during the week of Homecoming. Each day was designated a different theme. The days were as follows:

Monday— Crazy Day. (Also known as anything goes—and it did.) Students wore mismatched clothes and funky socks.

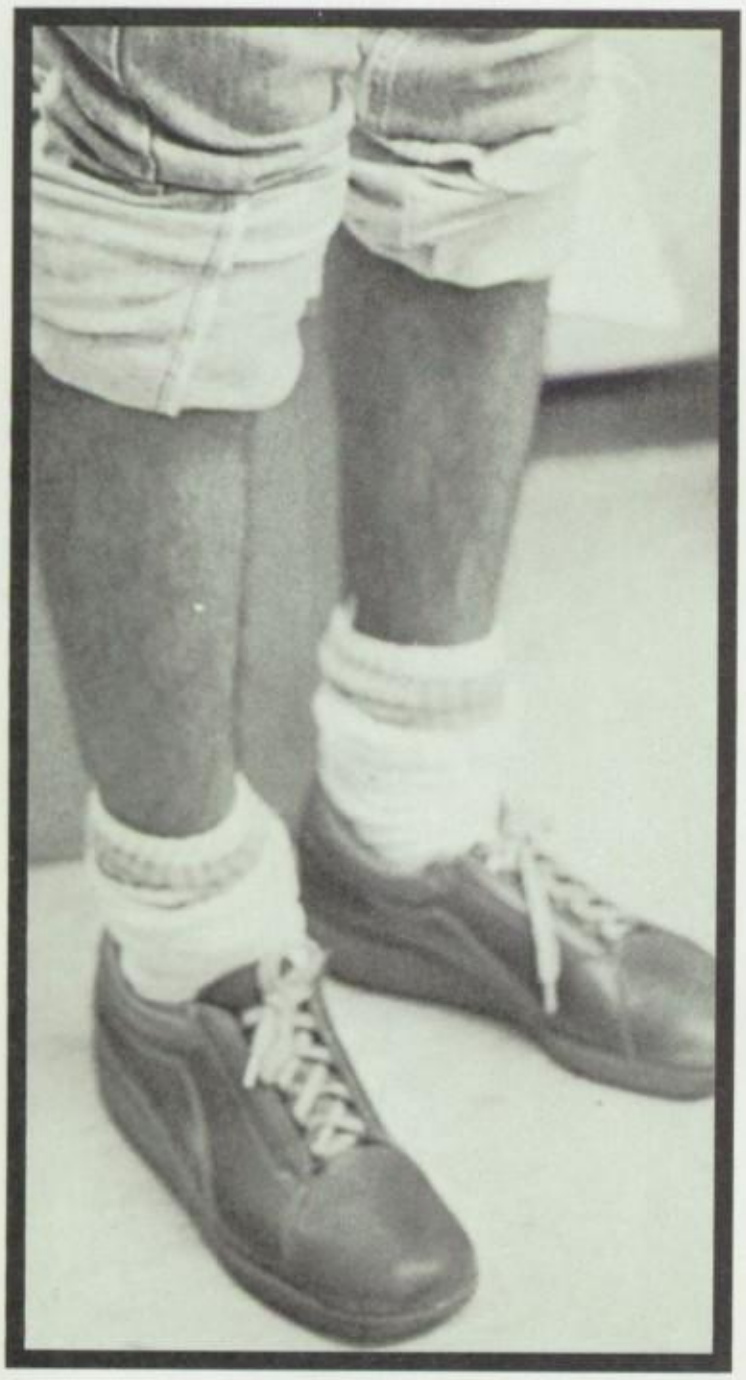
Tuesday— Leg Day. Girls wore dresses and boys rolled up their pant legs.

Wednesday— 50's Day. Boys imitated the Fonz and the girls looked like Laverne and Shirley.

Thursday— J. V. Slave Day and Sports Day. J.V. football players presented their jerseys to their best "slave" girls. Many students wore outfits to represent any sport—basketball, baseball, etc.

Friday— Varsity Slave Day and Blue/Gray Day. Varsity football players gave their jerseys to the girl of their choice to wear during the day. Everyone went searching through their closets looking for something gray and something blue.

The climax was a pep rally Friday. Lots of cheers, noise, and excitement filled the gym. When the bell rang, everyone rushed out filled with victorious expectations—they were not disappointed.



Spirit week was full of suprises. On Leg Day, Theodore McIvor models his.

50's Spirit—Coretta Younger shows her enthusiasm by dressing as a cheerleader of the 50's.

Homecoming
October 21, 1977

The time arrived for the game to start. The whole team was really up and they were anxious to prove to their hometown crowd and the rest of the district that they were a potent and highly explosive team.

The score was tied at halftime 0-0. This may have dampened some enthusiasm for the game, but the halftime show brought it back again. The band performed "Rocky" and "Feelings" as the cars, carrying the Homecoming Court and the soon-to-be queen, moved onto the field. Susan Roakes was crowned Homecoming Queen by School Board Chairman Roger Morrow. During halftime, the crowd visited with one another. Graduates returned to support the team and maybe run into some friends that they hadn't seen since graduation day.

The game resumed and finally the team emerged with a 8-0 victory. Enthusiastic students and guests rushed to the gym for the celebration dance.

Queen of '77. Susan Roakes poses after being crowned at halftime.

Representatives. Annette Mosby and Linda DeJarnette ride in a Corvette.

Susan Roakes Crowned Homecoming Queen

Double take. Sisters Terri and Vickie Dickerson were elected to the Homecoming Court representing the tenth and eleventh grades respectively.

Pretty maids in a row. Senior representatives, Sharon Callaham, Amy Foster and Susan Roakes prepare to join festivities on the field.

Homecoming Dance

The annual Homecoming Dance was held immediately after the football game in the gym. The mood was good (we had won the game), and the music was loud. Brown Brothers played records while the students danced. A lot of strange faces floated around. The songs seemed so long that the most common remark voiced was, "Have they started a new record yet?"

Dance to the Brown Brother's Disco

Boogie down! These people are enjoying just one of the many songs played after the football games.

Music makers were Brown Brothers Disco.

Sitting one out. Some of the boys sat around but they were in the minority.

Slow dancing appears to fit the mood as Audrey Moore and Earl Booker pair up.

Gettin' Down to the music proves to be the immediate goal of most people.

Here She Comes...

Pretty pose. Willie Puckette, the Most Spirited contestant, models his outfit.

Such a decision. Mr. Jerry Smith, one of the judges, ponders who he will pick as the winner.

Cheering section. Robert Clowdis, Van Tanner, and Mark Scott applauded wildly as one of their "girl" friends walks on stage.

Miss W.C.

The mood was set. The student body crowded into the gym to witness the second annual Womanless Beauty Pageant. Acting as emcee and commentator, Mr. Calvin Buck started the proceedings. The eighth graders were the first to appear from behind the stage. Each contestant modeled their outfits while the audience roared with laughter. The "raving beauties" game some of their outstanding statistics such as measurements, favorite pastimes, and future plans. After all the "girls" had been introduced, they took their last stroll past the judges. They then returned to their dressing room. The judges debated and finally came up qith the following decisions.

Queen — Don Pannell
1st runner-up — Tony Clark
2nd runner-up — Hughie Foster
3rd runner-up — Kevin Mosby
Most Spirited — Willie Puckette

Here "she" comes. During the beauty contest, Raliegh Dawson parades in front of the stage.

Prom night? Not hardly. It's the beauty contestants gathered for one last shot.

Snow man. Custodian Rufus Dickerson prepares to clear the main entrance for easier access to the school.

In need of assistance, Greg Parker struggles to free his car from snow accumulation.

Cold as Ice

Caught in the act of throwing a snowball, Andy Carr puts all his strength into it.

How many times did you come to school only to find the schedule rearranged because of the weather? The snow presented many problems such as: buses arriving and returning home late, cars sliding around in the parking lot, and even the lack of heat. There were many cancellations. Due to snow the basketball teams had to play up to four games a week to update the schedule.

Some days the temperature didn't get out of the 20's and those were the days you were forced to fight the teachers for a seat near the radiator to prevent frostbite. Then, as luck would have it, your next class would be in the annex and as you were plodding through the drifts, you were plastered with a snowball coming from an unknown source.

Even though students loved to get out of school for snow, they didn't like coming to school on Saturdays because they missed watching cartoons and American Bandstand.

Slip slidin' away. Sometimes it takes teamwork to drive a car. Watt Foster finds this out in the wintry days Virginia experienced.

Educational Center

Draftsman. Harold Dawson listens closely to his drafting instructor.

This year marked the second year of operation for the Vocational Technical Center. Courses were taught in such fields as Child Care, Auto Mechanics, and Office Simulation. Another program offered was ACCENT. ACCENT was created to motivate different, exciting ways of learning and the grades earned in this class counted as English and government credits.

Students were enrolled in either morning or afternoon classes. Transportation was furnished by buses to and from the center.

Auto mechanics. Robert Clowdis and Ronnie Tisdale try to repair a piston.

Auto body repair shop. David Hubbard repairs a car's side with a sander.

Construction. Thomas Payne shows his skill by helping to make a model.

SPORTS

Sports Banquet

Dinnertime. The cafeteria was filled with sports players and coaches enjoying the feast in their honor.

Voted the Most Spirited Cheerleader, Vickie Adams receives the plaque from Sponsor Meg Jennings.

It's all pay-off. Defensive coach Carl Koenig presents Kenneth Brown and Roger Smith with the "Best Offensive Linemen" award.

The joint football, football cheerleaders, and volleyball Sports Banquet was held November 29th. It was an occasion for the athletes to get together, not just for a meal, but to pay tribute to their coaches and those players who had achieved outstanding success in their sport. Coaches presented awards to the following:

Football
Best Offensive Linemen — Roger Smith & Kenneth Brown
Best Offensive Back — Ricky Davis
Best Defensive Linemen — Boo Younger & Eric Britton
Best Defensive Back — Sherman Hamlette
"General" Award — John Mosby
"Hot Dog" Award — Theodore McIvor

Volleyball
Coach's Award — Tanya Harper
Most Valuable Player — Beth Roakes

Football Cheerleaders
Most Spirited — Vickie Adams
Captain's Award — Hope Vandegrift

Congratulations. "Best Defensive Back" was awarded to Sherman Hamlette at the Sports Banquet.

End of the line. Football players wait their turn to receive their plate at the sports banquet.

"Punt, Pass, Kick"

The year was here! With 17 seniors, totaling at least 50 years of experience, and a tough group of underclassmen, the football team looked impressive. They were determined to stomp all rivals and win the district championship. The gridders easily took Liberty and Appomattox and then pulled a 2 point victory over Amherst. Two more victories against Gretna and Lexington assured players, coaches, and supporters alike that W.C. was a winner. The gridders went into the Rustburg game with high hopes, and determination. The Stands were packed. The Generals made the first touchdown within minutes after the kickoff. Something went awry, though and the Devils began to mount quite an offensive. They walloped the Generals 28-6.

The Generals spirit was dampened but not for long. They came back to defeat Nelson, Altavista, and Brookville. They suffered only one more loss; this was to Jefferson Forest in the last four seconds of the game. The final record was an impressive 8 wins and 2 losses.

Picking up extra yardage, Ricky Davis (22) shows why he gained 3000 yards in three seasons.

Defense by Mark Wilkes (21) keeps this player from scoring.

Head coach, Ronnie Cox summed up the team's accomplishment with the following remarks: "The team had less depth but the defense against the running attack was better. I never had this many people make All-District before." (12 positions were named.) Of the seven years I have coached here, the team has emerged second in the district five times and have had Lineman of the year three times.

News stories credited the Generals with "dominating the district." They may not have won the championship, but they left a lot of people believing "We're still the one".

"Down, Set, Hut 1, Hut 2"

The name of the game is defense as Watt Foster (86) tackles the quarterback while Eric Britton (77), watches the action.

Rivalry mounts when a wreath sent from Rustburg High School arrives prior to the game.

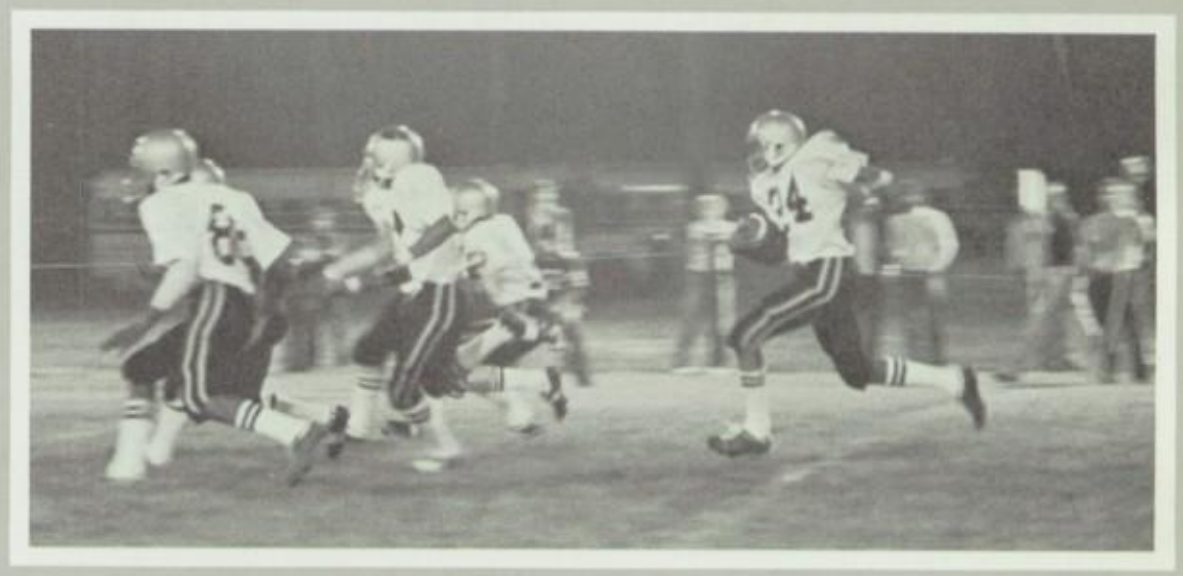
Turning it on, Silas Wimbush runs behind the blocking of Stanley Peerman, and James Haley.



The wall. Theodore McIvor races toward the goal post behind the downfield blocking of the offensive line.

Anxious to get the loose football from Amherst defender are Kevin Shorter (11) and Don Harris (89).

Go, team! The boys' varsity team heads onto the hardwood amid the cheerleaders' frenzied roar.

Basketball cheerleaders began the season with a new sponsor, Miss Charla Wesley, as well as new uniforms. In order to raise money, the girls sold candy and doughnuts to take the varsity girls' and boys' basketball teams to King's Dominion.

The football cheerleaders also obtained a new sponsor, Mrs. Meg Jennings. They spent their summer getting their cheers together and making new uniforms. One of the most important fund raising events for the girls was the Homecoming dance. The cheerleaders showed the football players their appreciation for the roses they received, by giving them a party after the sports banquet.

Trying to get the feelin' and arouse the spirit for the upcoming football game, the cheerleaders recite a chant.

Shoulder up! Stanley Baker (22) utilizes an extra boost from a Brookville player to get two points.

With only four returning players, '78 proved to be a year of rebuilding for the varsity basketball team. Mr. Keith Scruggs was promoted to head coach and the assistant coaching position was filled by Mr. Calvin Buck. Players, new to the varsity team, improved as the season progressed. Many players saw considerable action which will add experience to future teams.

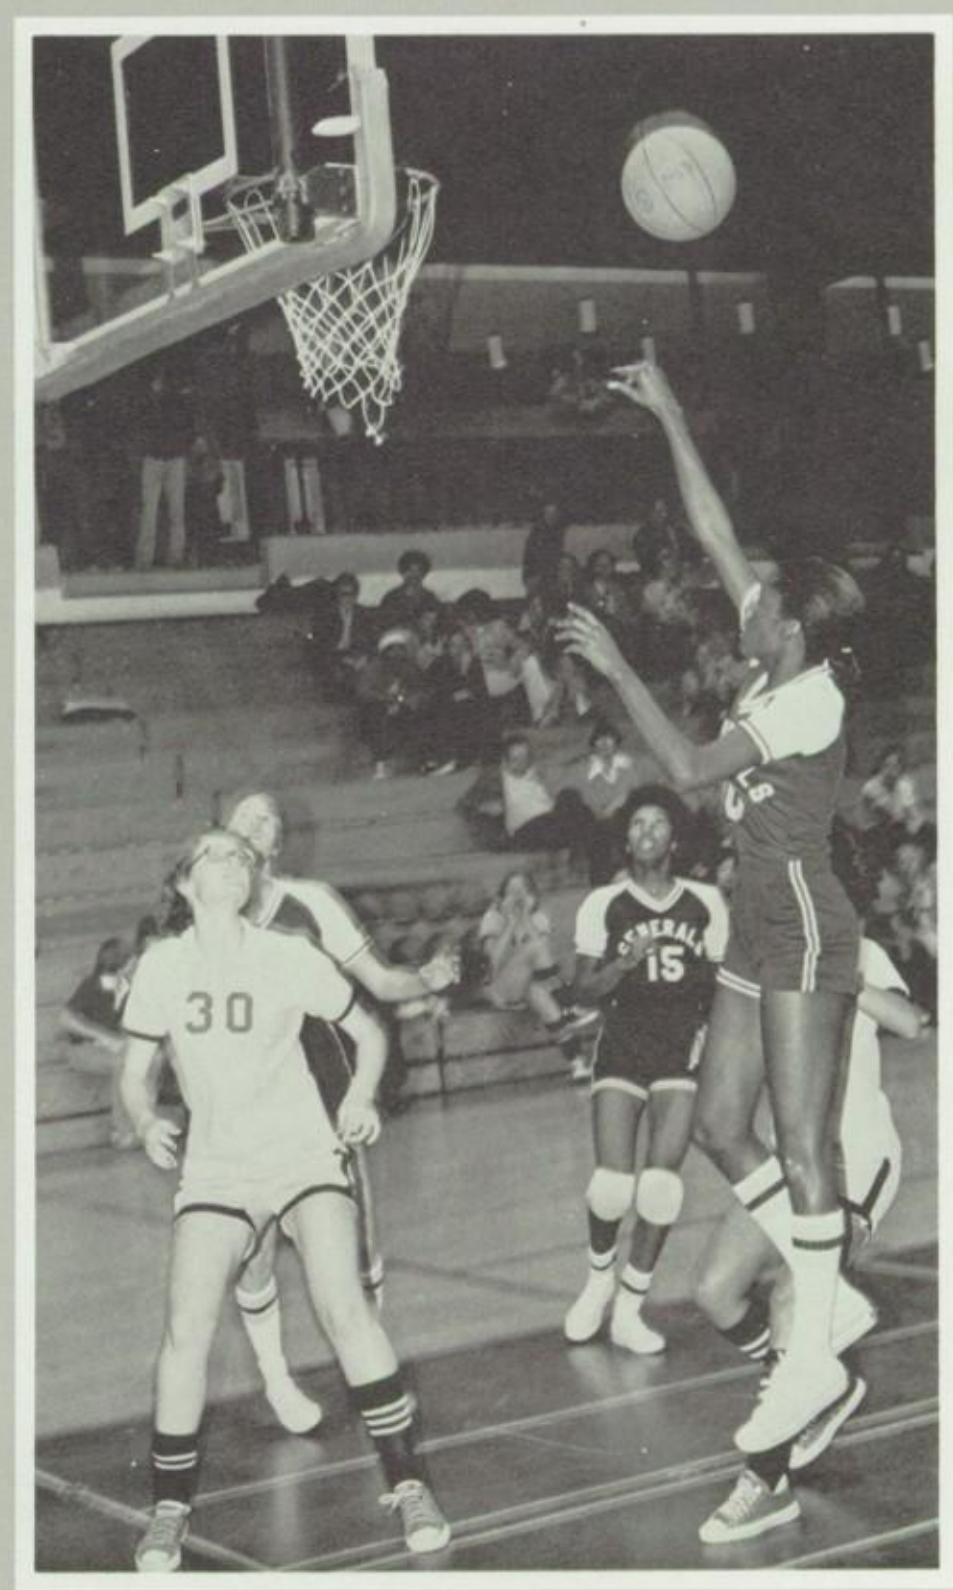
The Girl's Basketball Team suffered some heartbreaking losses to several of the highly competitive teams in the Seminole District. Although the number of losses is not indicative of the actual quality of the games, the girls put forth 100% effort and improved in skill and teamwork throughout the season. The team lost six seniors, but Coach Denney feels that the team will improve further through skill, talent, and teamwork. Although the team didn't win in the numbers column, the effort and dedication of the girls brought them much respect and acknowledgement from the other district teams. The victories for the girls were found beyond what the scoreboard could tell.



Picture perfect. Fannie Hancock (10) shows good form with this follow through.

The indoor track team took a strong position in the Seminole District. A young team with only one senior, the cindermen proved to be dynamic. Under the instruction of Coach Jerry Smith, the team placed third in the District and Regional meets and also participated in the State competition.

As a good season ended last year, the start of a better one is in the process for the outdoor track team. Mr. Jerry Smith, team coach stated, "This is to be one of the best seasons yet!" Assisting Coach Smith is Mr. Carl Koeing.

Putting his best feet forward is Don Pannell during the District track meet at Lynchburg College's Wake Field House.

An ostrich? No, it's Bryant Nowlin doing his warm-ups before track practice.

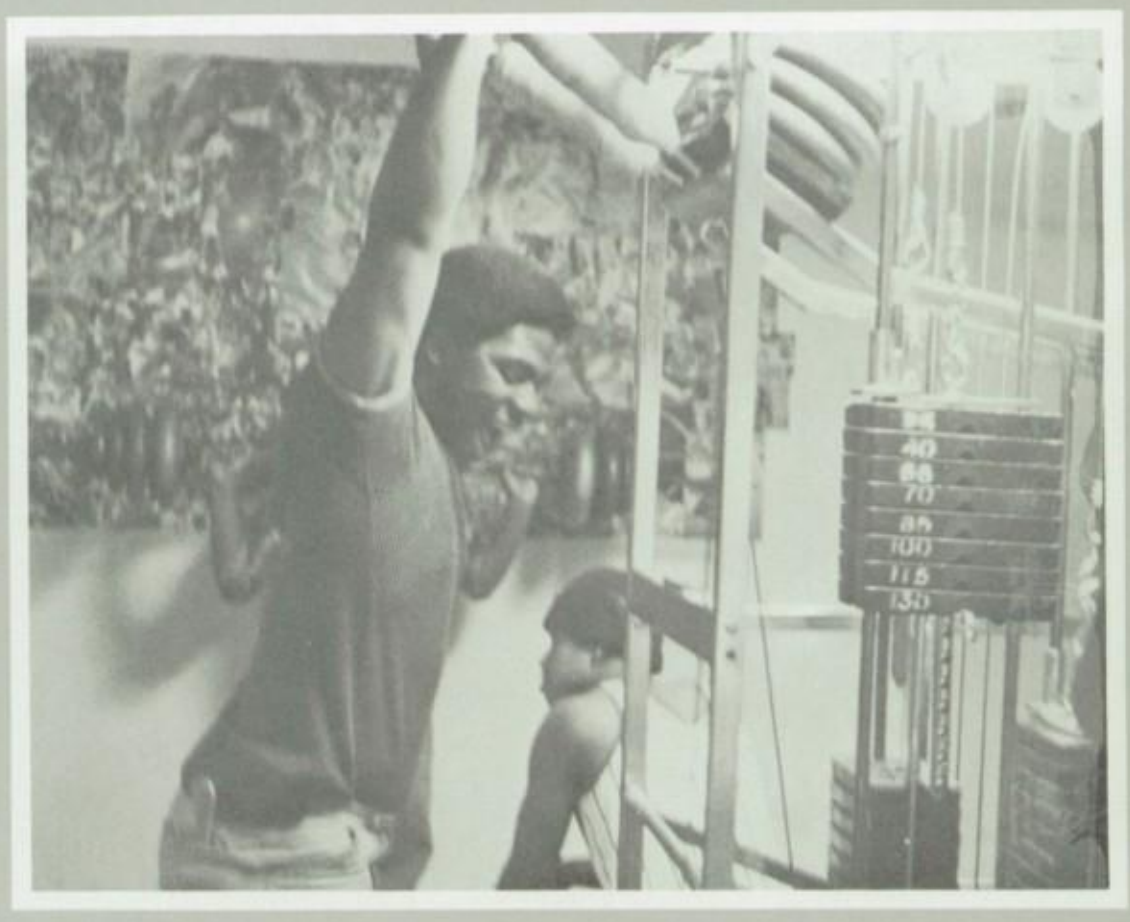
The lighter side of track meets is getting to eat afterwards. Steve Overby and Mike Milnor play on a McDonald's sliding board in Lynchburg after their meal.

"Pumping Iron"

Weightlifting was added to the sports program this year. It will generally strengthen and improve all other sport activities in the future. Under the supervision of Coach Carl Koeing, the weightlifting program got off to a big start. It was well received by all the athletes at W.C.

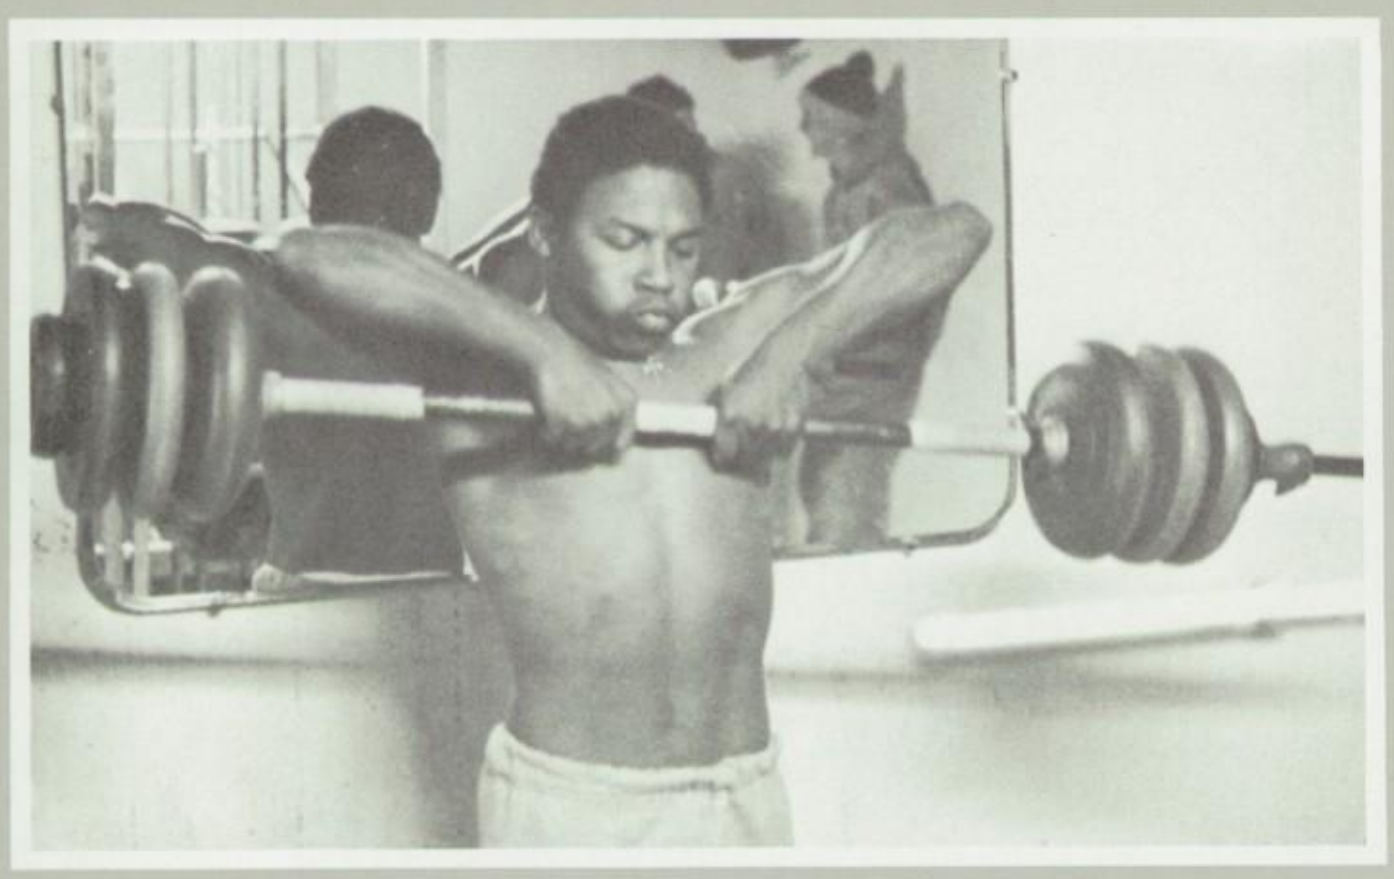
The weightlifting room itself took on a new look. After being partially remodeled with new equipment, the room became a center of pride and accomplishment. Overall, weightlifting will prove a strong and sound base for the competitive sport department.



Military press. Working on building up his upper body strength is Eric Britton lifting 130 pounds.

Concentrating on an easier way to lift 200 pounds is Benny Adams.

Trapped under tremendous weight is John Scott.



Holding on. John Mosby works with barbells to build up his upper body.

Putting a lot of weight on his shoulders is Ronnie Tisdale in the weight room.

Let's Go Generals!! The Girl's Volleyball Team gets some encouragement from their coach, during the match with Jefferson Forest.

Bump, Set, Spike. Joyce Pool bumps this ball to the front row for the put-away. Bonnie Lipscomb, Beth Roakes, and Joni Woodell are ready to help out.

The girls volleyball team sucessfully completed their season this year with an overall 5-5 record. The Generalettes, under the direction of coach Sharon Denney, became a potential threat to the other teams in the district as they began their season with a victory over Lynchburg Christian Academy. Other victories included: Jefferson Forest, Brookville, Rustburg, and Nelson County. Under the leadership of co-captain Bonnie Lipscomb and Beth Roakes, the team improved immensely in skills, techniques as well as team play. The girls—for the first time in WCHS volleyball history—attended the District Tournament, held at Amherst County High School. The Generalettes faced Gretna in the first round of tournament play. Gretna took the first game 15-6, but WCHS rallied in the second game to win 15-13. With time expired, the Generalettes held Gretna to a 16-14 victory in the 3rd game. Although the Generalettes lost this match, the other teams and coaches were indeed impressed with the improved playing ability and team spirit of the WCHS girls volleyball team.
P.S. Coach Denney is not looking forward to losing her eight varsity seniors!

Leather Lunch. Tanya Harper hopes to make some Altavista player eat her spike, while Bonnie Lipscomb and Beth Roakes stand by to help out.

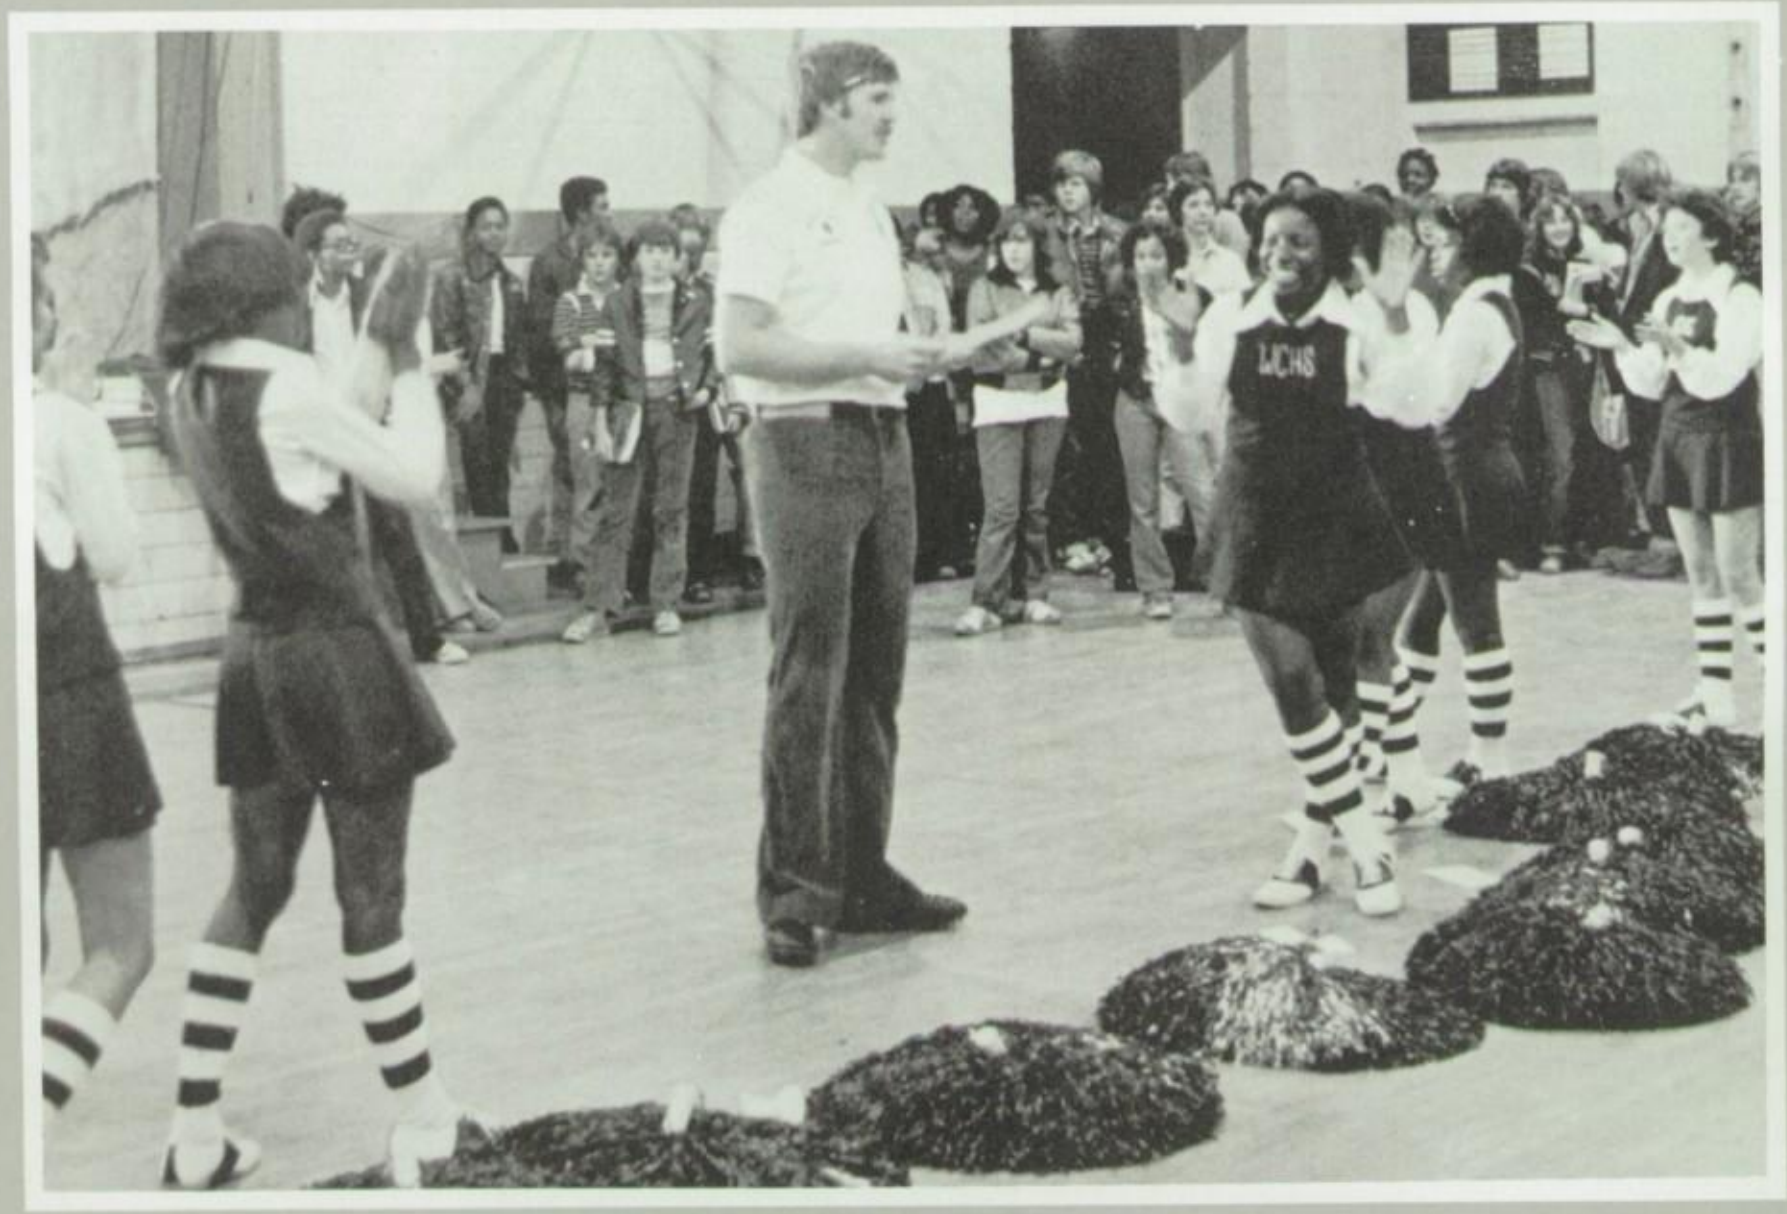
We've Got the Spirit!

Pep rallies were times when the student body gathered to show their spirit for the sports team. They were held in the gym and each grade had a special section in which to sit. A spirit stick was given by the cheerleaders to the loudest class when "We've got the whole school on our side" cheer was sung. The majorettes and Flag & Rifle Corps aroused spirit by performing various routines to the beat of the band.

Overwhelmed with glee, the eighth graders claim the spirit stick.

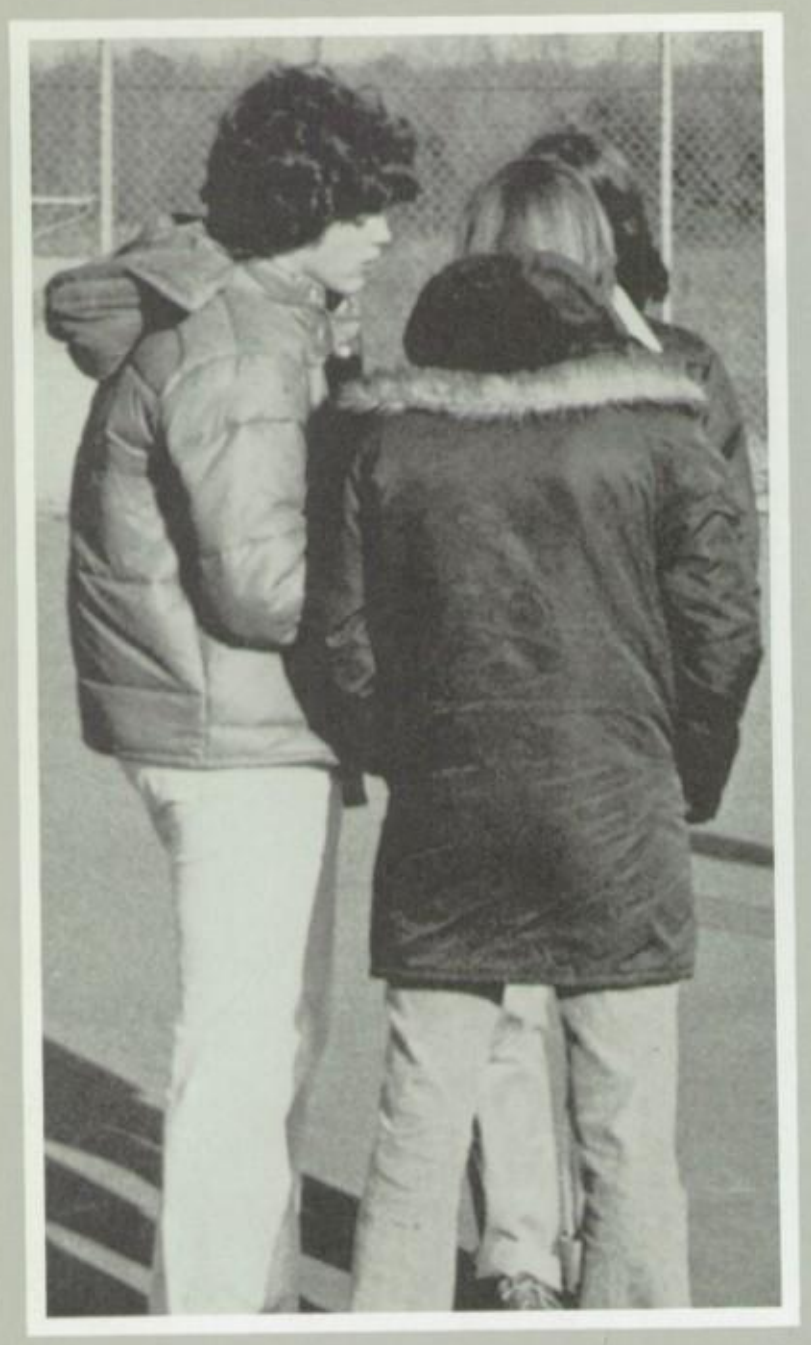


Roll call. Coach Scruggs announces the boy's basketball team for the season.

Varied emotions are displayed by Mr. Barry Rice and Mr. George Clark during pep rally time.

Doing doubletime are the majorettes, who not only performed during half time shows but also during pep rallies.

Dead Devil. Debra Layne proudly displays the demolished wreath that Rustburg sent the football team before "the" big game.



Tennis talk. Joni Woodell discusses her plans with managers Kim Morrow and Gail Seckman.

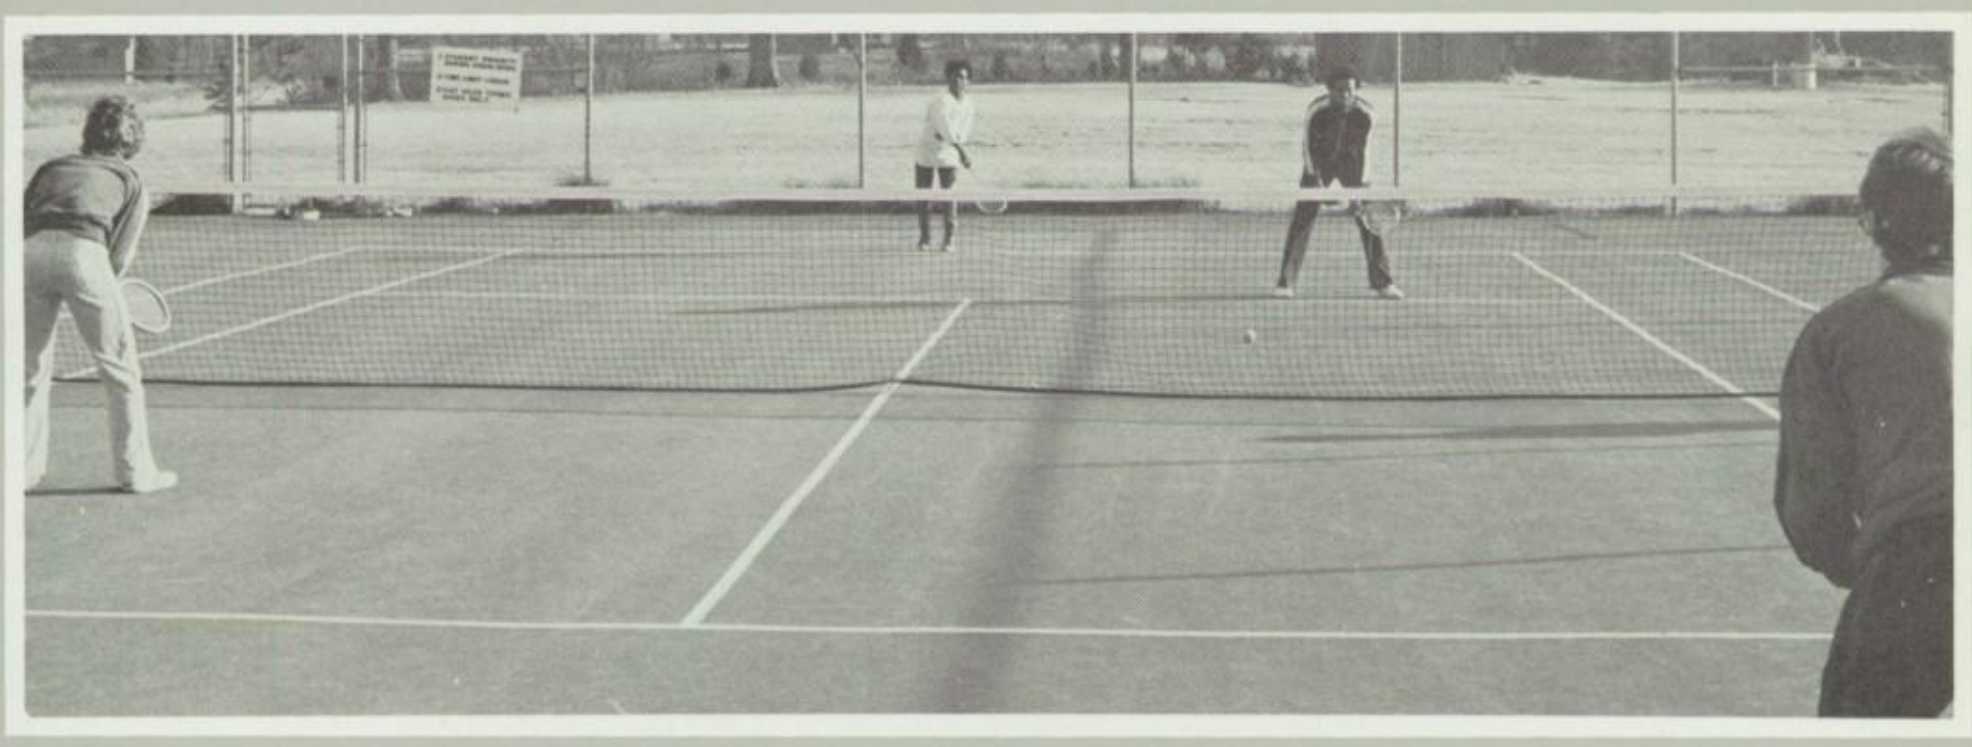
A forceful serve is demonstrated by John Burford.

Leisurely waiting for their turn, Eric Peterson and Richard Leggett lean on the fence.

Real swingers. Tennis players practice their various skills.

Tennis, Anyone?

Tennis is a relatively new addition to the sports curriculum with the first team competing three years ago. It looks like this may be the year the tennis team comes of age. With many returning players and new coach Calvin Buck, the tennis team members hope to make this a winning season. Coach Buck commented, "We hope to win using basic fundamentals and endurance."



Court clash. Prospective tennis team members battle it out in a doubles match.

Ready to play. Tennis team hopefuls gather to wait for instructions.

Getting a move on, Elvira Mitchell jumps into action.

Caught it! Devery Wade practices her catching.

Training time. At softball practice, Tanya Harper practices a drill.

Crouch and catch. The girls form a line to receive throws.

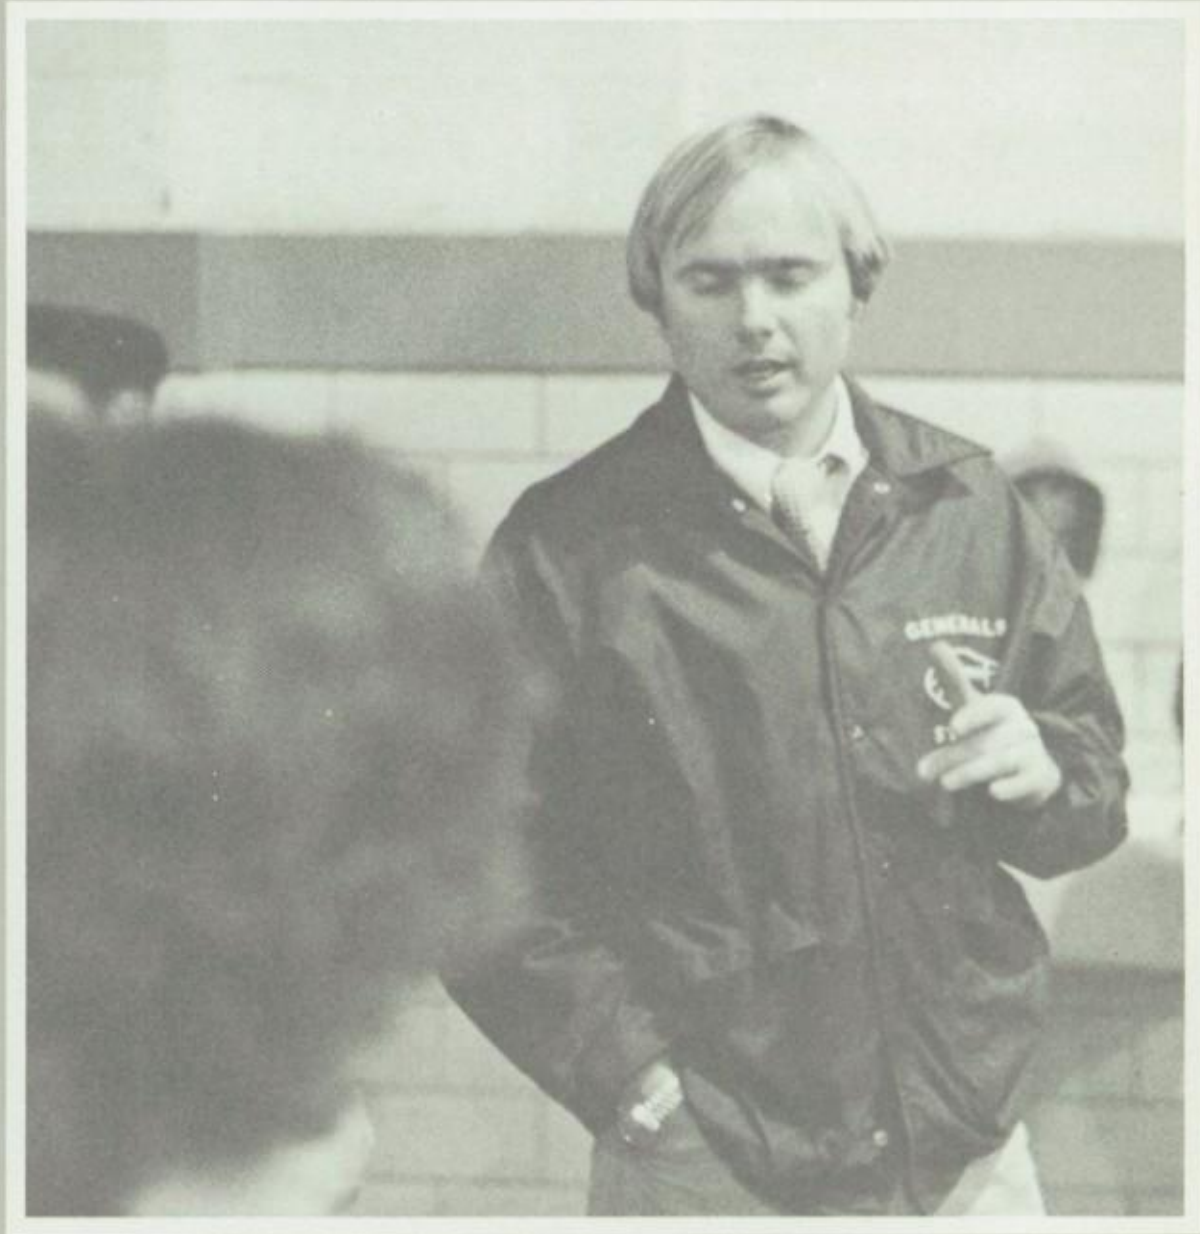
Experienced and Enthusiastic

Time to start. Softball tryout members get ready to warm up.

Last year's softball team posted a 6-14 season. Tryouts started in March, and practices were held after school. The team braved the cold and windy weather to prepare themselves for the tough Seminole District competition. The girls advanced to semi-final play in the district tournament where they were paired against Gretna. The team was eliminated in this game by a very close margin.

Due to the yearbook publication date, pictures of the softball team were unavailable except for tryout photographs. Twenty-seven girls tried out and Coach Barry Rice stated, "I anticipate a good team this year due to the experienced players returning."

Pitching practice. Barbara Allen loosens her arm up during softball tryouts in the gym.



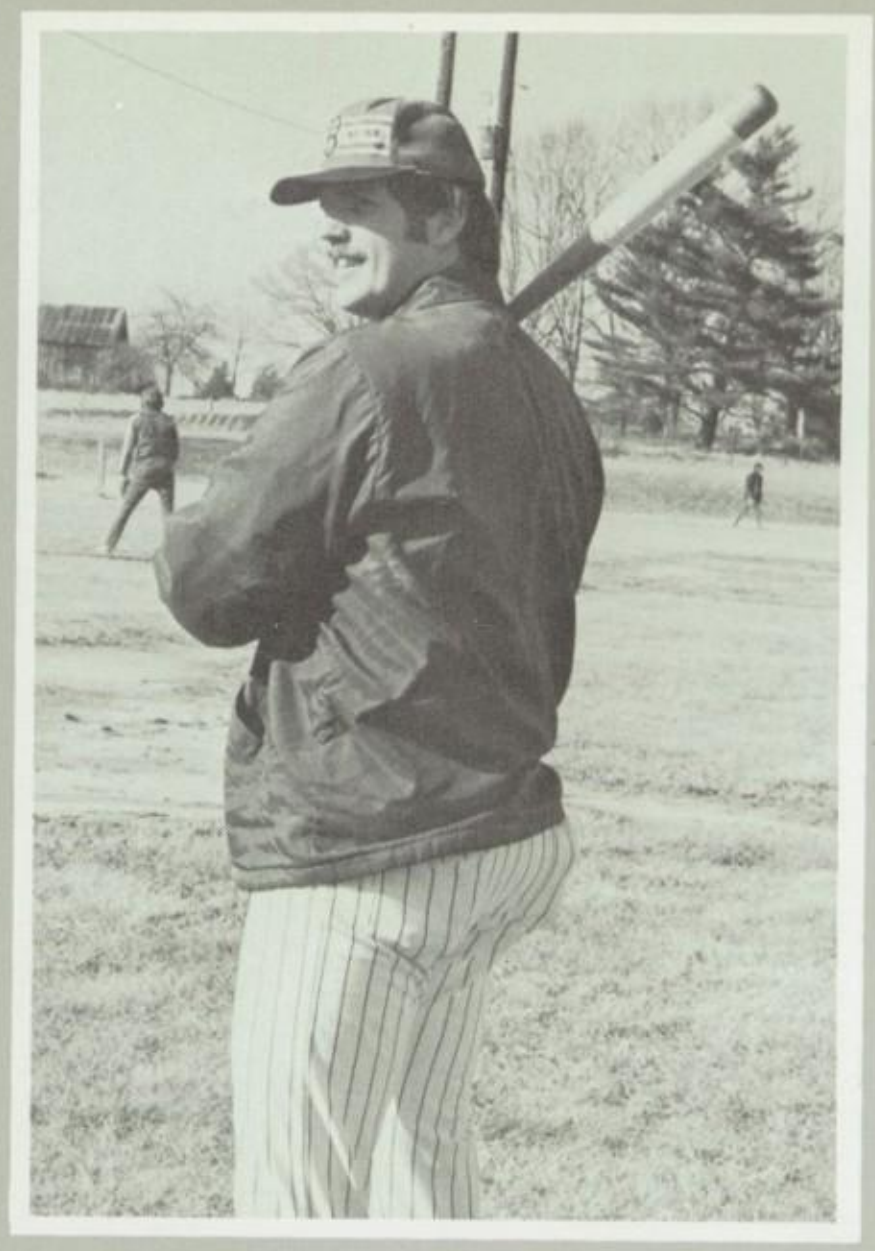
When the coach talks, the girls trying out for softball listen.

Waiting for the pitch, Don Harris concentrates while Kenneth Brown positions himself for the outcome.

Improving his batting technique is Kenneth Brown using the batting tee while Mr. Scruggs watches.

Diamonds are Forever

The strong March winds seemed to bring in the baseball season. One of the youngest and inexperienced teams in the district, four seniors starters were looked toward for leadership by Coach Keith Scruggs. Even though the players realized they were a young team, they were enthusiastic in their bid for the Seminole District Championship Title. When asked to comment on the standing of the team, Coach Scruggs stated, "It proves to be a rebuilding year because we have a real young team with only three players returning from last year."

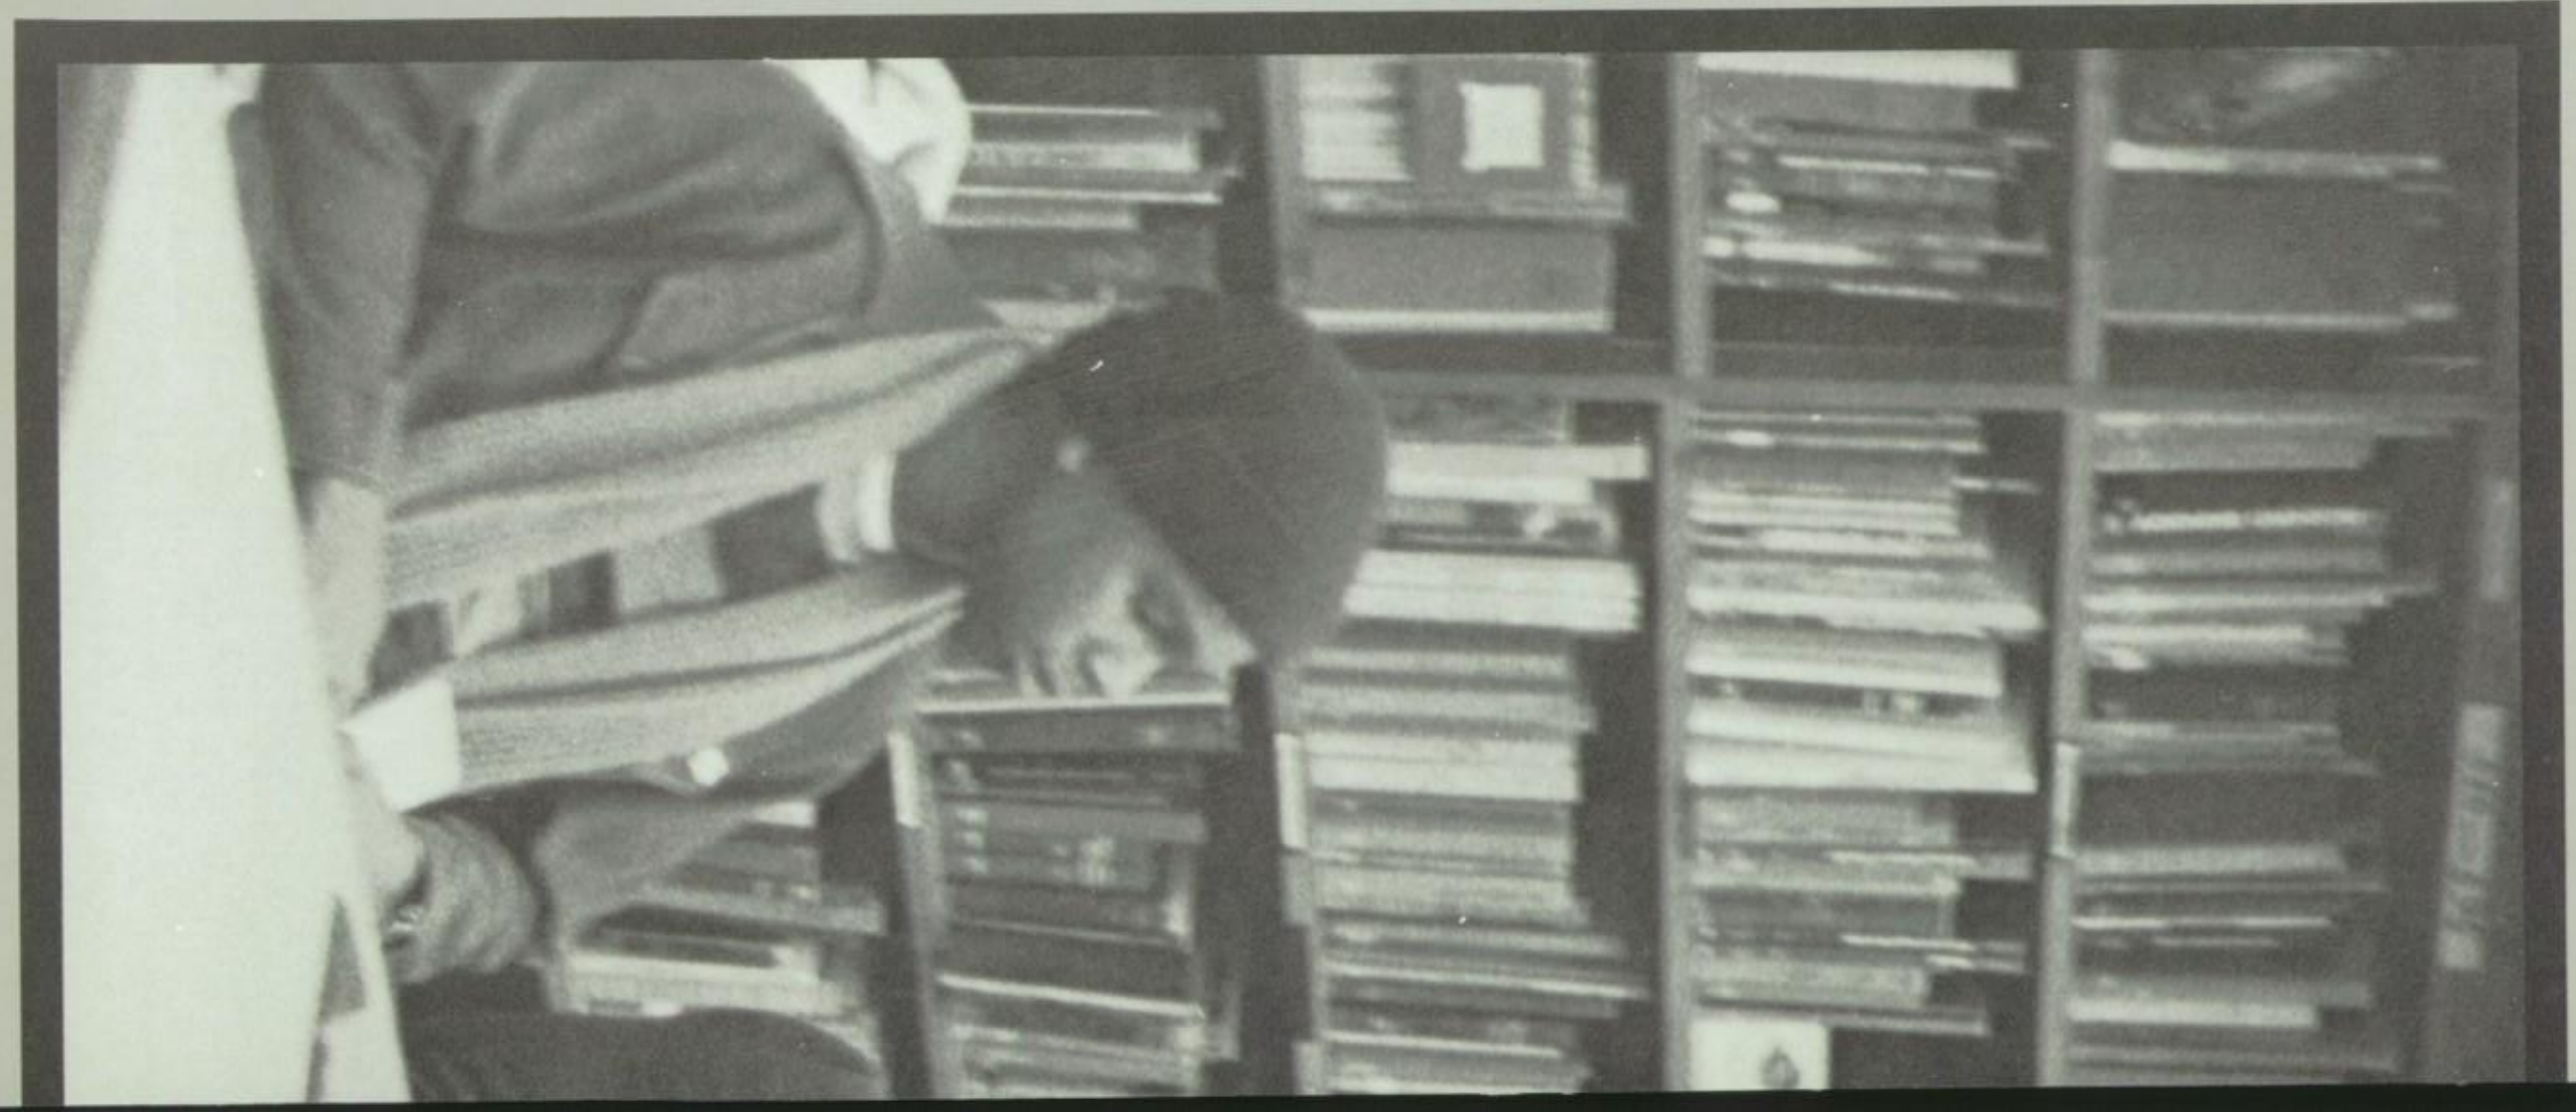


Batter up! Coach Keith Scruggs slams some practice hits to the outfield.

Loosening up his arm, Kenneth Jordan throws a soft pitch.

Getting ready to take the field, Kenneth Brown and Don Harris discuss strategy.

CLUBS



Marching Generals

The idea had been expressed by many band members that band just wasn't fun and no one tried or cared anymore. So, starting this summer, the point system was put into effect. "The point system is a system of check, play-off, to see that students know all of a particular piece of music or activity," explained band director, Mr. C. Edwin Temples.

Some of the band's activities were their Christmas and Spring concerts. They performed in many parades—the Tobacco Festival, the Shriner's, Lynchburg, and Brookneal.

SODA: It's the Real Thing

The word SODA stand for Students Organized for Developing Attitudes. This group was new here, but not to the county. There were seven participating students and each had about six sixth graders from Brookneal Elementary School which they met with once a week. Thirty hours of training was a requirement which took up Saturdays and Sundays during the month of January. The actual talking with students began in February. They talked to the sixth graders about value, attitude, listening, drugs, and sharing.

Front Row: Teresa Younger, Beth Loftis. Back Row: Alice Younger, Karen Finger, Mary Ann Dunkley.

"Dames at Sea"

"Dames at Sea", the musical produced this year, employed the smallest cast ever, with fourteen members. There were seven main characters and a chorus composed of seven also.

Unlike previous years, there was no pit band, but two pianos, percussion, and a bass guitar were used. The production was presented April 20, 21, and 22 with prior practices three and four times a week.

5 . . . 6 . . . 7 . . . 8 . . . ! Cast members find out dancing takes a lot of stamina.

Flap, step, step. Members of the musical cast work to improve their tap dancing steps.

Musical accompanists. Mary Ann Dunkley, Greg Parker, and Greg Williams practice the overture included in the score for the musical production.

Chorus Line

Vocal ensemble was comprised of eighteen students who auditioned for a position in an organization which performed popular and secular music. This independent group chose all it's own music and choreographed it's own dances. These students toured schools twice during the year and performed for civic as well as school activities.

Mixed chorus was made up of members from the second period class and morning members who arrived 45 minutes early twice a week. This group performed only at Christmas and Spring concert. The class was used to further one's music ability as well as one's singing ability.

Sponsor: "This year's group is very hard working with many young and inexperienced singers."
—Mr. C. Edwin Temples

Members: "It's a little harder trying to learn the music in morning chorus but I like to sing so I don't mind."
—Emily DeJarnette
(Chorus)

"We're one big family working together, if we didn't work together we would not perform together."
—Pat Trent

The Music Makers

Woodwind Ensemble. Mike Ginther, Beth Loftis, Lisa Shorter, Carol Foster, Susan Roakes, Hope Elder, Amy Foster, Mary Ann Dunkley, Cindy Hughes, Pat Trent, Karen Finger, Greg Parker.

Brass and woodwind ensemble were made up of the top instrumentalists in the music department. These members were chosen by audition. Their music ranged from classical to contemporary. Due to limited rehearsals, the individuals had to rely on their own talent in order to play their parts well.

Sponsor: "Working with these groups has been very enjoyable, since there is more of a one-to-one relationship with each member."
—Miss Ava Jeane Jarvis

Members: "We only had two weeks til the performance (Christmas concert) and we practiced three times! Everyone knew that they would have to learn their part quickly or it would be a catastrophe, but everything turned out alright."
—Karen Finger
(Woodwind Ensemble)

Following the directions of Ava Jeane Jarvis, the woodwind ensemble played their musical selection.

Officers and Representatives

The Student Cooperative Association served as the center of school government. In May, students interested in serving as officers met certain requirements and then a school-wide election was held to elect the slate of officers. The members met periodically to plan events, such as dances and fund-raising efforts.

The Homeroom Representative organization is composed of students from each homeroom and their job is to assist the SCA Council in communicating with the student body. They aided by sponsoring a bake sale and a dance. The representatives also participated in producing the Womanless Beauty Pageant. Funds raised by the student body went to SCA projects and bought scholastic letters.

Sponsor: "Homeroom Representatives were an enthusiastic group. They were anxious to improve the student-faculty relationship."
—Mrs. Carolyn Lusardi

Members: "It gives you a sense of responsibility and authority."
—Mike Ginthsr

"I've enjoyed it, but it's been a lot of work."
—Alan Jones

SCA Council. Alan Jones (Vice-President), Tammie Fallen (Secretary), Angie Blanks (Reporter), Barbara Nowlin (President), Stanley Baker (Program chairman), Audrey Moore (Treasurer).

The Presidential Club

The Inner Club Council was one of the newly formed clubs. This club consisted of all the presidents of every other club. Their duty was to try to get more activities organized for the benefit of the school. The council had the task of meeting with the evaluation committee and familiarizing them with what each club did and other extra-curricular activities. The Inner Club Council was formed by Mr. Peak and it met every second Wednesday before school. Sharon Callaham, co-chairman of the organization, summarized the club by saying, "this year the council was able to form only one new club. Others are needed, such as a Pep Club."

"Let Us Lead by Serving Others"

The Beta Club motto is "Let us lead by serving others." The members carried this theme out by placing books in the library, ushering at graduation service, and many other activities. The club had one large money-making project which was selling candy. They observed National Beta Week in connection with Teacher Appreciation Week and Student Appreciation Day.

The big event of the year for Betas was attending Beta Convention in Roanoke and sponsoring a candidate for the state presidency. In May, senior Betas were honored with a cook-out. During the same month, the club traveled to Roanoke again to participate on Klassroom Kwiz, a television quiz show.

Sponsor: "It is one of the best clubs ever had . . . some of the best and most conscientious workers."
—Mrs. Myrtle Fore

Members: "Being accepted was a great start and remaining in the club is a great goal. I feel the Beta Club has made me a better person in many different ways."
—Vickie Adams

"I was proud to be chosen and I feel it is a great honor to be in it."
—Kathy Gilliam

The Librarians' Helpers

The organization of Library Homeroom Representatives was founded this year. Their main duty was to distribute overdue book notices and sometimes to return the books to the library. Library Homeroom Representatives were also members of the Library & Projectionist Club. The people involved in this club volunteered work hours for routine library work such as checking books, shelving materials and making displays. The projectionist members also maintained the audio visual equipment and operated it if needed. A dance was scheduled as a fund-raising event with the money going toward buying new books and recordings.

Sponsor: "The members were most important to the functioning of the library. They tried to improve media service and stimulate other students to make appropriate use of library services."

—Mrs. Carolyn Lusardi

Members: "I feel the Projectionist club is very helpful to students. It's a lot of fun to be in."

—Ricky Wilkes

"The club is a necessity in this school."

—Jose Waller

Getting Down to Business

The Future Business Leaders of America is an organization formed to help students plan for their careers. The club had several office workers to speak at club meetings and also a Christmas party with entertainment provided by the Ensemble. Members of FBLA participated in the Regional Convention at Longwood College and the state spelling contest.

Sponsor: "FBLA is off to a good start with a larger membership this year. The members are enthusiastic and are participating in the activities planned for them."

—Mrs. Sylvia Riddle

Members: "FBLA is an interesting club. It gives you ideas about jobs and how you go about getting them."

—Sandra Foster

"It is an interesting, nice club to be in. It helps you after graduation."

—Mary Adams

Rapt attention is exhibited by these VICA members while Mr. James Hardison speaks.

The Vocational Industrial Cooperative Association club is a group of students who work to develop leadership abilities through participation in educational, vocational, civic, recreational and social activities. Some of the activities include monthly club meetings, leadership conferences, and officer elections.

Sponsor: "Students plan together, organize and carry out worthy activities through use of the democratic process. The goal is to help these students become happy, mature and productive citizens."

—Mr. James Hardison

Members: "I liked the club a lot. It teaches you about jobs and it instills values."

—Vickie Moorefield

"The VICA contests give you a chance to grow as a person and the club gives you a broad understanding of the working world."

—Teresa Colbert

"Will the Real Me Stand Up?"

The Future Homemakers of America Club had a membership of 133 members. Participating in the Campbell-Appomattox Federation, the club sponsored a talent show and picnic for its members. The FHA members participated in National FHA Week as well as having a poster contest.

At the skating party held in Lynchburg, Bonnie Moon was crowned "Miss FHA" for the federation and Alestia Peerman served as federation vice-president as well as the school club's president.

Sponsor: "Returning to an activity period during the school day raised the FHA membership from 46 last year to 133 this year. Most of these members are joining for the first time but are active and interested in the FHA program."

—Mrs. Barbara Seamster

Members: "Thus far, it has been a rewarding experience. Not only does this club teach you to cook and sew, it gives an insight on how to become a more useful person."

—Clarence Walker

"FHA is alright but it can be improved."

—Brenda Walker

The Forensics team was comprised of ten members and one sponsor. They raised the money they needed by several bake sales. The team participated in the Virginia High School League district tournament, the Brookville Tournament, and the Longwood College Invitational. The two abilities needed to be good in Forensics are a flair for the dramatic and endurance.

Sponsor: "I have enjoyed working with the students this year and feel that we should have several winners. I like going to the tournaments as much as the students do because we laugh a lot and have just plain fun."

—Miss Beverly Jones

Members: "Even though you don't win, the knowledge and experience you gain is rewardable."

—Nancy Poindexter

and Candy Apples

Fund-raising. Discussing ways to increase their money supply, members debate selling candied apples.

The debate team had a total of nine people along with their sponsor, Mrs. Drucilla Green. Debate was one activity where members learned the responsibilities that go along with team work. Members agreed that a debate tournament must be experienced to fully understand it. Debate meetings were held after school and candied apples were sold at football games to raise money for debate materials.

Sponsor: "This year promises to be an exciting one. I have a hard-working, experienced team that is more than adequately prepared to beat all the teams in this area."

—Mrs. Drucilla Green

Members: "I never want to see a candy apple again!"

—Beth Loftis

From Shop to Crops

The school Future Farmers of America chapter is one of the most active in the state. It has an enrollment of 236 members and three sponsors. In state-wide contests, the FFA club produced top winners in both farm business management and forestry-judging. It is one of the few chapters in the state with a land laboratory.

Sponsor: "FFA provides students with learning opportunities by doing through participation in leadership training activities such as judging contests."

—Mr. Danny DeJarnette

Members: "FFA is fun and you learn a lot of stuff."

—Mike Godsey

"It's an occupational class and you do a lot of things in the shop."

Where there's fire, there's KVG

There were approximately forty-five members involved in the Keep Virginia Green program. These people were required by law to fight forest fires and they had taken a special fire-fighting training course. The KVG team has not had to use its fire-fighting skills, but if they are needed, the crew is properly trained to fight the fire safely and effectively.

Sponsor: "KVG provides excellent opportunities for students to learn to fight forest fires and learn proper burning techniques."

—Mr. Danny DeJarnette

Members: "I feel that KVG is a benefit to the community as well as to myself because it gives you experience in fire-fighting."

—Roger Smith

"I'm glad I'm a part of it because I get to meet people and I feel like I'm doing something worthwhile."

—Andy Carr

Shop craft. Dean Claybrook inspects the plaque he made in agriculture class.

The "Experimental" Group

The Science Club had the largest membership ever maintained totaling almost 100 members. The club's major goal was a trip to the Smithsonian Institute in Washington, D.C. To finance the trip, money-making projects were launched. Speakers from various colleges were also scheduled to talk at club meetings to promote an interest in science.

Sponsor: "As sponsor, it is a pleasure to work with this year's officers and club members because of the enthusiasm and initiative shown."
—Mr. John Cocke

Members: "It's time well-spent and it's an aid in experiencing different fields in science."
—Barbara Nowlin

"The Science Club has been a very rewarding experience during the past year."
—Barbara Allen

The Democratic process is used to elect officers at a Varsity Club gathering by Mr. Jerry Smith.

The Varsity Club is made up of all the people who have lettered in a sport, such as football, cheerleading, and basketball. No fund-raising projects were launched this year but a major one will be needed soon to replace the supply of award letters and emblems the club gives to sport participants. The club prepared a spring sports picnic and Awards Assembly which also included a Varsity Club dance.

Sponsor: "If it wasn't for the Varsity Club, individuals wouldn't be able to get letters and awards for sports."
—Mr. Jerry Smith

Members: "I like the club but we don't do very much."
—Terri Dickerson

"Carpe Diem"

The Latin Club was an addition to the extra-curricular schedule. All of the students enrolled in Latin class joined the club and they met once a month. Their motto was "Carpe diem" (Seize the opportunity) and the club colors were purple and yellow. The Latin Club sponsored a Christmas party and invited overseas travelers to conduct some of the club's programs.

Sponsor: "I hope that the students studying Latin this year will find it an interesting "adventure"—one that will enable them to read Latin and to realize that "LLT"—Latin Lives Today."

—Mrs. Dorothy Fore

Members: "I am really pleased with the things the Latin Club is studying and I hope Latin will continue to be offered."

—Judy Ashworth

"I enjoy being program chairman. This is the first year for the club so we are learning as we go along."

—Sheila Crabtree

Time Consuming yet Worthwhile

The yearbook staff was made of eleven members and one advisor. Fourth period was designated as class time to work on the annual. It was a time-consuming undertaking with added pressure to make deadline dates on time. But in the end, being able to see that you worked on something that will last forever was worth it all.

The yearbook staff positions were as follows:

Miranda Flynn: Editor-in-Chief
Beth Loftis: Business Manager
Marian Kirkland: Layout Editor
Tammie Fallen: Copy Editor
Mary Ashworth: Ad Editor
Tanya West: Assistant Ad Editor
Robin Elder: Index Editor
Theodore McIvor: Information Editor
Gary Jones: Photography Editor
Bonnie Lipscomb: Photographer
Benjie Garrett: Photographer

Trying to keep busy. Benjie Garrett, Marian Kirkland, Mary Ashworth, and Tammie Fallen give their full attention to sorting pictures.

Sponsor: "This staff wins the award for congeniality. They work well together and the 'proof will be in the yearbook' so to speak."
—Mrs. Patricia Davidson

Students: "It was a real experience . . . "
—Mary Ashworth

"It's the one class you think you won't have any homework in, but you find you have more in this one class than all the others combined."
—Bonnie Lipscomb

FACES

Once Every Ten Years

An eighteen member committee, consisting of state department personnel and teachers from various parts of the state, came to our school the week of Nov. 14-18. Following their arrival, the committee prepared to orient itself to a new school. Following the S.C.A. tour of the physical plant, they retired to their central meeting place—the Home Economics Department with all those prepared "goodies"—and proceeded to carry out a very tight schedule. All involved personnel, including committee members and school staff as well as visitors were entertained the first night with a social hour, banquet, and special music, provided by the Ensemble. They stayed overnight at the Sheraton Inn in Lynchburg and drove down each morning to stay with us for the day. They read the self-study, prepared by our school staff last year, and then checked out facilities and student activities, as well as, observed each teacher at least twice over the four-day period.

On Friday at 1:30, all school and state personnel met in the cafeteria to hear the results of our study and theirs. The committee was generally complimentary of our school and our efforts, and in many areas, cited special accomplishments. Recommendations were also made.

Though the visit and subsequent reports produced some controversial remarks on the part of many, all persons finally agreed on one issue. This can be summed up best in a frequently heard remark, "I'm glad it's over!!"

A school tour is in progress as an advisory committee member halts to question Tammie Fallen.

Advisor-Student meeting. Advisory member, Theodore McIvor, Sharon Callaham, and Gary Jones discuss school activities.

The People Behind the Scenes

Who had the heat turned on when you arrived at school? Who did you turn to when your locker was jammed? The custodians performed duties that most took for granted. They arrived earlier and stayed later than students. They repaired broken locks, replaced cracked windows, moved equipment, materials, and books, cleaned floors, cut the grass, and quickly responded to cries for help.

Student bus drivers assumed greater responsibilities than the average students. Not only did they get up early and drive their routes, they also had to get their riders to and from school safely. Many times they were called on to take groups to interschool events. Occasionally, they had to enforce discipline and may have felt the unpleasant sensation of separating themselves from their peers. Most, however, enjoyed their work and appeared to generate respect from other students.

Another group of people that was really important was the cafeteria workers. In most people's minds, the high point of the day consisted of visiting the lunchroom to purchase the product of a day's work from these women. They always came through with a meal and it was greatly appreciated.

This school could not function without its service staff.

Soup's on! Cafeteria workers are in the process of doing their daily jobs.

Getting ready. Mrs. Gladys Austin and Mrs. Geraldine Rosser prepare to serve lunch.

Faculty

The faculty is the backbone of any school. Here it was no different. Regardless of whether they were in the classroom, office, library, or guidance department, they were ready to assist students. Maybe they were not always the most well liked people, but they did their jobs.

Many faculty members devoted their spare time to extra-curricular activities such as cheerleader and club sponsors. Some faculty members just went home and tried to get themselves together for another day . . .

Seniors

Every underclassman in the entire school envisions the day when he or she will become a senior. What they don't know is that everything that glitters is not gold. Infact, gold is what is needed! Money for caps and gowns, graduation announcements, class keys, senior portraits, college applications, . . . This list goes on and on.

Last, but certainly not least, is the added prestige supposedly given a senior, such as going to lunch five minutes earlier than underclassmen, getting to pick English electives first, and knowing that hopefully you won't have to come back to school next year.

When you finally achieve the rank of senior it hits you that—this is it! You realize there are important decisions to be made for your future. This is one time in your life you are really grateful for the Guidance Department. As a 12th grader you try to get your act together.

Soft Landing? Al Berkley puts his best effort into his District meet jump.

Book-hitting time. Seniors, Denise Smith and Rita Hamlett, retrieve their books from the locker to start another day.

We got it! Barbara Allen and Coretta Younger claim the Spirit Stick which was awarded to the senior class at a pep rally.

Outstanding Seniors

Front Row: Shelly Crabtree, Ruth Baber. Back Row: Nancy Poindexter, Debra Foster, Mary Ashworth.

Business

Ruth Baber, Debra Foster, and Nancy Poindexter all successfully completed such business courses as business, business law, typing, shorthand, bookkeeping as well as the office simulation course at Vo-Tech. Each girl also has part-time employment.

Mary Ashworth enrolled in various business courses such as, general business, typing, business law, and bookkeeping. She is interested in continuing in the business field.

Shelly Crabtree has been actively involved in ICT. She is employed by Basset-Walker, a local firm.

Agriculture

Brandon Scott and Greg Williams were chosen as excellent students in agriculture. They both served as officers, attended state conventions, and were in such contest as crop judging, farm mechanics, and dairy teams.

Greg Williams, Brandon Scott

Barbara Nowlin, Vickie Adams

Home Economics

Barbara Nowlin was outstanding in the field of Home Economics for three years. She was a member of the Future Homemakers of America Club for four years and also received her Junior Achievement Award.

Vickie Adams has been enrolled in Home Economics for two years. She was an active member in the Future Homemakers of America Club for four years and also received her Junior Achievement Award.

Outstanding Seniors

Front Row: Angela Moorefield, Chrystal Mosby. Back Row: Audrey Moore, Amy Foster.

Mathematics

Chrystal Mosby and Audrey Moore maintained a high average in math courses. They took general math, Algebra II and advanced math. Both girls received certificates for being straight-A students in mathematics.

Angela Moorefield and Amy Foster received recognition because of their good work in math. They took such courses as Algebra I and II, geometry and advanced math. Angela and Amy received mathematics certificates also.

Social Studies

Social Studies honors were divided among Tanya Harper, Bobby Patrick, and Kenneth Brown. Each of these students took World History, U.S. History, and Government.

Bobby Patrick, Tanya Harper, Kenneth Brown.

Kathy Gilliam, Richard Leggett.

Science

Richard Leggett maintained a high average in chemistry and physics during his two years at William Campbell. He has been a member of the Science Club for two years.

Kathy Gilliam showed her interest in science by taking such courses as Science 8 and 9, biology, chemistry, and physics. For years, she was also a member of the Science Club.

English

Tammie Fallen

Tammie Fallen was chosen Outstanding Senior in English. She took five years of English and she was copy editor in Journalism.

Art

Ada Anderson

Ada Anderson was chosen as Outstanding Senior for Art I because of her drawing ability.

Susan Roakes

Foreign Language

As Outstanding Senior in foreign language, Susan Roakes completed both Spanish I and II with excellent grades.

Hope Elder, Hope Vandegrift

Music

Hope Elder was active in band throughout her high school years. She was in beginner band one year, advanced band for four years, and musical band one year. She participated in various concerts, parades, football games, All-County band, and Woodwind Ensemble. Hope received a band letter, five band medals, one clarinet medal, and was a section leader.

Hope Vandegrift was in chorus and musical for three years and Ensemble for two years. She also participated in All-Regional Chorus. Her singing ability also gave her a chance to try out for a position in one of King's Dominion's shows.

Juniors

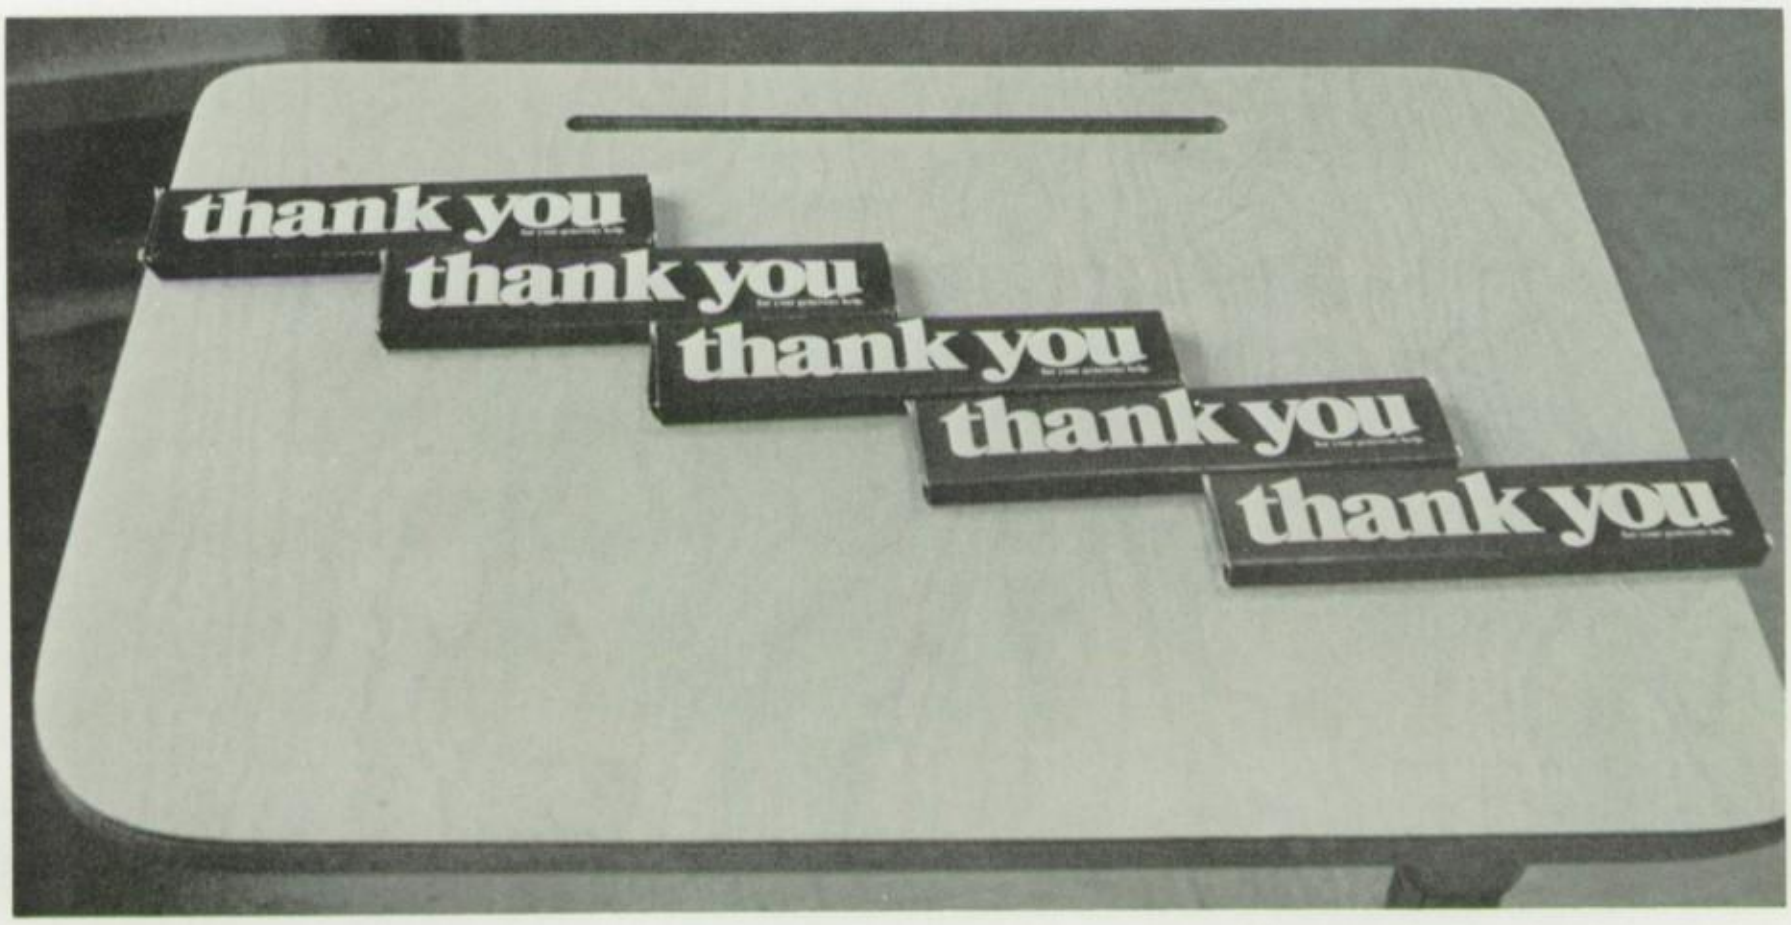
Working their way up the educational ladder, juniors caught a glimpse of what it's like at the top. Eleventh graders radiated anticipation. This conception began to dull a bit when they found out the work involved.

Juniors assumed more responsibility than in previous years. They choose class officers and planned the Junior/Senior Prom. Getting enough funds to sponsor the prom wasn't too easy as everyone had to turn into a super salesperson. Popcorn, as well as ink pens, were peddled.

Class ring, order day in November, was as usual, a big event. Juniors finally got tangible evidence of what they were progressing toward. Students, deciding they were not ruling college out as a future choice, took the college board tests that indicated their Mathematical and English knowledge.

The eleventh grade was a time of change. Juniors felt that they were getting somewhere after all. Many more left the yellow buses and joined up in the student driver ranks.

Most Valuable Player was the title bestowed upon Beth Roakes by Coach Sharon Denney for her work during volleyball season.



Speak for themselves. These were the boxes the ink pens were housed in that the junior class sold.

Standing guard. Bryant Nowlin watches closely as basketball spectators file into the gym prior to a game.

Methods to sell the product is the top priority in Mr. Moore's mind during a junior class gathering.

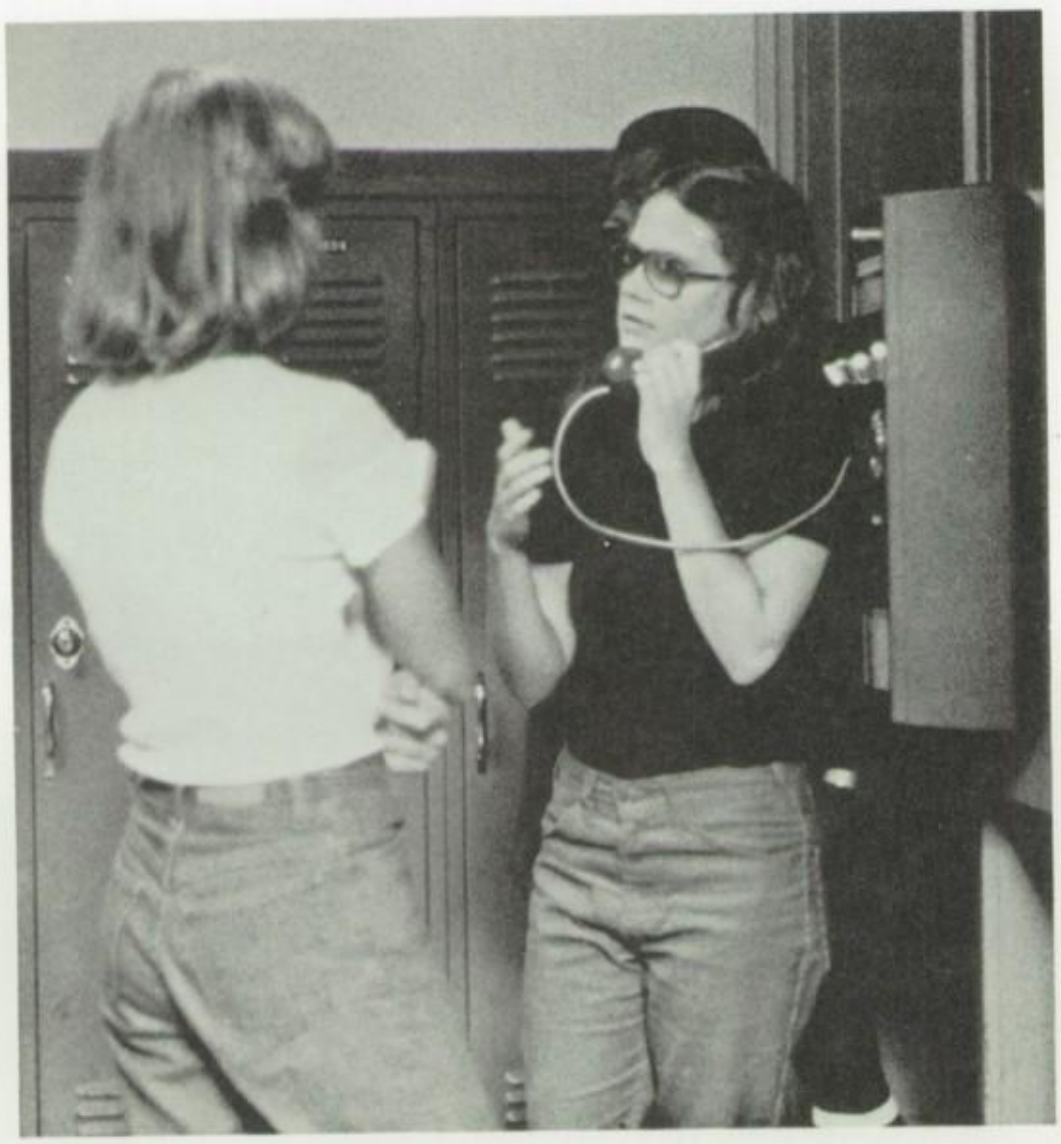
Sophomores

Sophomores could be characterized as a ham in a sandwich. They were right in the middle — between novices and "pros". Yet, in a sense, school life took a new turn.

Tenth graders were eligible for English elective classes. This proved to be bittersweet. Maybe some students were able to dodge their most feared aspect of English for awhile but, alas, there they were — thrown into a room with upperclassmen! "Will I look stupid?" and "How much fun are they really going to make of me?" staggered through their heads. Usually, they survived the first nine weeks and began to ease into the routine.

Another known fact added inspiration to the biggest class, proving that there might be hope yet. It was the last year required to take gym. No more gym suits to wash, tennis shoes to remember, or showers to take! Taking everything into consideration, the ultimate change in a sophomore's life was getting that precious piece of paper certifying that he or she was licensed to take to the road.

This "sandwiched-in" group took a breath and hung in there. They built their future on past experiences.



"Hello?" The hall phone is the center of many conversations. Yuette Hannah explains her point to the person on the other end of the line while Kathy Kirkland listens.

Freshmen

Becoming a ninth grader meant that you had completed your initiation and had become a true member of the student body. No more did you hear the ringing of "baby general" in your ears.

By ninth grade, people started to build the patterns that would follow them throughout their school years. Freshmen filled the ranks of the junior varsity sports teams and were able to join more clubs than they did in their first year in high school.

School's out! Janet Parrish and Bonnie Bell leave school by the front entrance after the bell rang.

"Help!" pleads Lynn Jones as she is tackled while playing frisbee.

Chat time. Ninth graders group against the lockers to talk over the day's events.

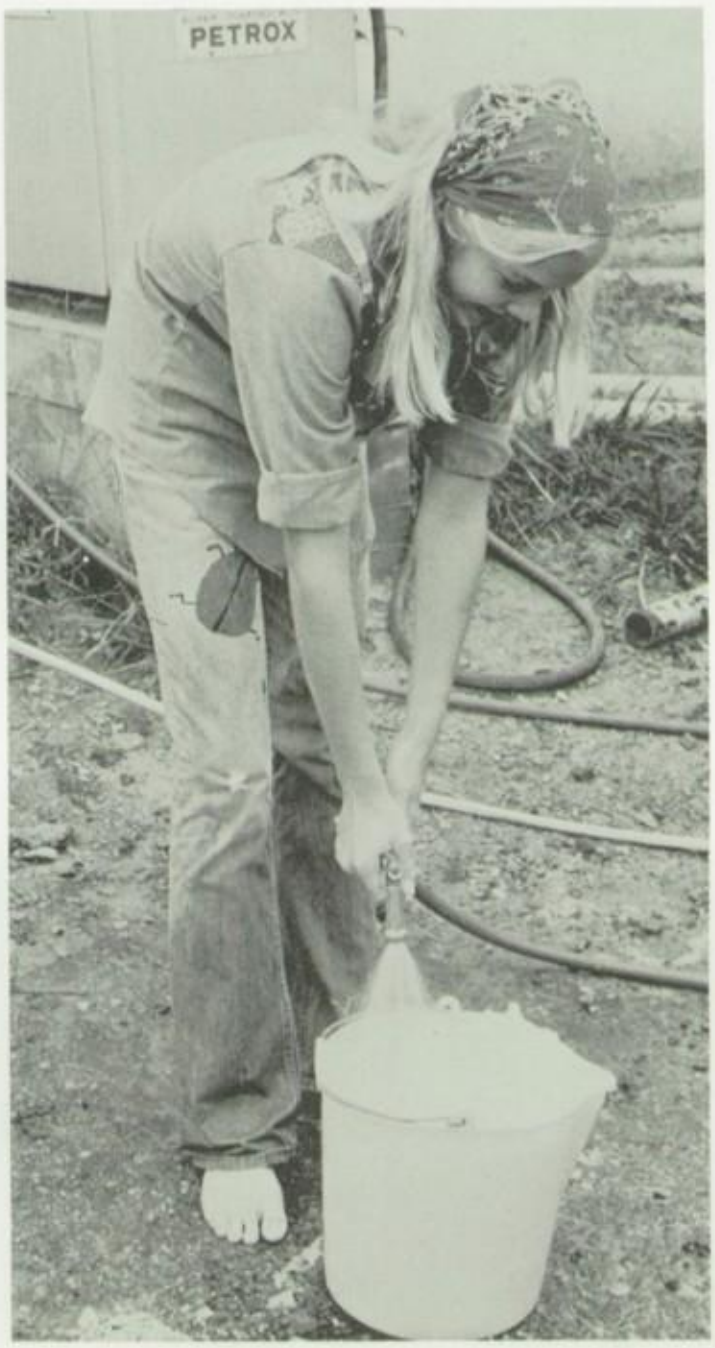
Eighth Graders

What a change! It was a bit of a shock to go from the oldest group in school to the youngest in another. This was the trauma the eighth graders experienced. Going from elementary school to high school, was a big step to take. The first day of school was a little comical. Pre-freshmen sported new clothes and all the notebooks needed for an entire year. Here came the seniors in their oldest blue jeans and no books. This phenomena made you wonder what really happens to a person in the five years of high school.

They were the baby Generals getting the taste of a whole new set-up. The school was bigger, the faces unfamiliar, and the schedule different. Sometimes it was a little difficult to take the barbs thrown their way, but the eighth graders survived and dreamed of the day they would rise to new heights.

Dressed out. These eighth grade girls get ready to choose sides for a basketball game in gym class.

What a catch! Reaching high, Kim Morrow seizes a throw during a frisbee game.



Fill 'er up. Pre-freshman Colleen Corish gets ready to tackle another car during a car wash sponsored by the band.

Pure pleasure. Eighth graders are really thrilled when head cheerleader, Hope Vandegrift, hands them the spirit stick.

Bursting his bubble. Mark Loftis is in a world of his own one afternoon at a debate meeting.

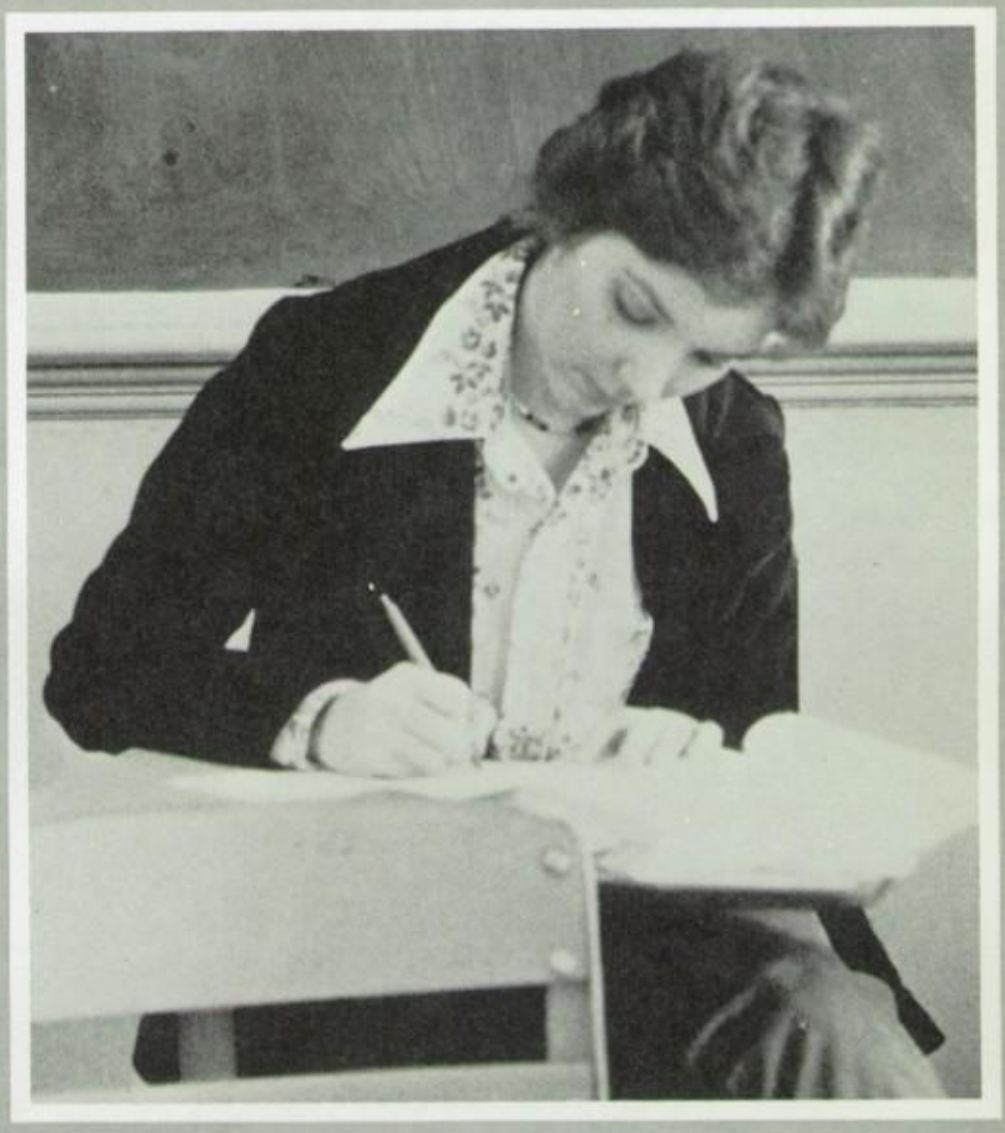
Fascinating demonstrations are performed by a representative of General Motors "Previews of Progress" program.

Weekly tradition. Each Friday football players don their jerseys and Roger Smith, Ricky Davis, Kenneth Brown, and John Burford are no exceptions.



Intense study is exemplified by Mary Ann Dunkley during history class.

Re-create '78

Remember '78? Many times you may think or speak these words and you will recreate the scene everytime memories well up inside of you.

The yearbook staff attempted to recreate '78 in pictures, words, and design. The question is though, "Can any year or day, hour or minute be truly recreated?" Obviously, the answer is no. We can try, but there is no adequate way to duplicate the feelings and the experiences that are individual to each of us. We can only catch a moment or several moments of time.

A picture, though, is still worth a thousand words.

Going it alone. Steve Rothemich performs a solo for the Homecoming half time audience.

Saying his last good-byes, Andy Carr converses while other students board the buses.
